nated. The student, entering the library, passes through the book stacks, and picks up his book on his way to the reading room. Leaving the library, he again passes through the stacks and deposits his book on the way. Only when a student is taking a book from the building will a check-out be necessary.

The reading rooms themselves will contain no book shelves. They are designed to provide a light and pleasant setting for study. Students will find a choice of working space—easy chairs for leisurely reading, and working "stalls" where men can study and take notes in privacy. There will be room for 270 stu-

CIVIC MUSIC PLANS MADE IN RALEIGH

The Raleigh Civic Music Association expects to have a capacity crowd at each of its performances this season. Although the date of each guest appearance has not been released as yet, the residents of Raleigh and vicinity will witness the celebrated talents of such artists as Elenor Steber, The National Male Quartet, Alexander Brailowsky, Josef Szigegi, The Charles Wagner Opera Company, and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

The young Miss Steber was born in Wheeling, West Virginia and made her operatic debut in "Der Rosenkavalier."

Josef Szigeti, a Hungarian violinist, was born in Budapest on September 5, 1892.

Charles Wagner, born September 20, 1878 in Charleston, Illinois, has an operatic bureau in New York. Probably the opera Madame Butterfly will be given at this engagement in Raleigh. An opera in three acts, Madame Butterfly was written by Giacomo Puccini after a play of the same name by John Luther Long and David Belasco.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra was founded in 1902 and is affiliated with the University of Minnesota. The Orchestra's conductor will be Metropolitan Demitri.

dents in "stalls" and more than 100 students in easy chairs at any time.

A smoking room, where students may talk and relax from their studies, will be provided on each of the three reading floors and the two mezzanines of the building. In addition, a typewriting room will make it possible for students to type notes directly from books in the library.

The idea of a library designed for undergraduates use was originated by Keyes D. Metcalf, Librarian of the University. Opening of The Lamont Library, which is planned for the fall of 1948, will relieve present crowded conditions in the present Widener Library. This library will continue as the University's center of scholarly research.

In addition to three floors and two mezzanines devoted to undergraduate reading rooms, the new building will contain two floors below ground devoted entirely to stack room for book
