

"MEN OF DISTINCTION"

Fran Thompson's KON KNOIZEN

"Ginner" Warren's BILL POE

Flash! Silver Springs, Baltimore, Annapolis, and Washington were favored on the week-end of October 12 with the presence of the illustrious personalities, Miles Thompson and Warren of the distinguished Meredith University of Raleigh, North Carolina.

It is rumored that said ladies of the South's most colorful city were seen upon more occasions than three escorted by the nationally known and revered Navy player and Annapolis Midshipman Ken Knoizen and the brilliant Bill Poe, Wake Forest grad and Harvard law student.

B.S.U. SPONSORS STUDY COURSE

On Oct. 14-16 the Baptist Student Union of Meredith College sponsored two study courses for all students.

The Y. W. A. manual was taught by Miss Hilda Mayo, state leader of the Woman's Missionary Union. Student chairman of this group was Emma McPherson, campus Y. W. A. president.

Bob Lassiter, state secretary of B. S. U. and a student at North Carolina State College, taught the book Deeping the Spiritual Life. Harriette Littlejohn, Training Union Director at Meredith was the student in charge.

The aim set forth in the study course was to acquaint students with the work of the Training Union and Y. W. A., and to train officers and leaders of these organizations.

Counsel Groups Hold Regular Meetings

On Tuesday, Oct. 14, the freshman and transfer counsellors met with their individual groups to present the first unit of the year's counsel work. The discussion of the unit included interesting facts about Meredith's history and traditions, such as crooking, caroling, and Palio and Stunt. The counsellors this year are Harriet Ashcraft, Anne Boykin, Rita Britt, Mary Fran Carpenter, Opal Clemmons, Mary Lou Dawkins, Winnie Fitzgerald, Margaret Hall, Lena Glenn Highfill, Nell Hunter, Sue Jarvis, Elizabeth Jones, Frances Meadows, Shirley Parker, Carolyn Richardson, Mary Lou Sawyer, Dot Swaringen, Mary Evelyn West, Doris Williamson, Marianna Worth, Virginia Gerock, Emma McPherson, and Jennie Lou Newbold. Ann Wallis is chief counsellor. Each counsellor has an adviser for her and her group, and Miss Lillian Grant is chief adviser.

Faculty Convenes In Weekly Session

The faculty held the first business meeting of the year at the new time, 1:30 on Friday afternoon, October 10. This plan was adopted by the faculty in its April meeting and calls for a scheduled hour, 1:30 to 2:30, each Friday for faculty meetings, Academic Council meetings, student and faculty committee meetings. In order that there will be no conflicts, the afternoon schedule of classes and laboratory sections begins at 2:30 on Friday afternoon.

The Academic Council will hold its first regularly scheduled meeting on Friday, October 17, at 1:30 p.m. Thereafter, the Council will meet on the third Friday of each month.

Helpful Home Hints From One Who Knows

Aside from her usual run-of-the-mill campus activity, art major Betty Hefner likes to settle down with anything from the oldest issue of House Beautiful to the latest copy of The American Home, just so long as the subject of houses is involved. In addition to house plans, Betty collects articles on different types of furniture and furniture arrangement, color schemes, the reconverting of old pieces, decoration, and household repairs. She even has one article on "How to Paint Screens." (Note: Seems like Betty is at least going to have a neat little vine-covered cottage. . . .)

All of this valuable information Betty has arranged in a very attractive notebook which she will show you at the slightest provocation. Fact is, she loves to drag it out and minutely explain each little detail to anyone who will listen.

Out of her love for houses Betty has found an interesting and enjoyable hobby which will surely be of great help to her in planning her own home some day. And to those of you who are planning dream castles, I suggest that you see Betty for helpful home hints.—J. L.

TOWN STUDENTS DISPLAY TALENT

"Hi! How're Y'all!" was the keynote of the gay get-together the old Day Students staged for the new girls on Friday, October 3, at one o'clock in the Meredith Hut. Highlighting the activities after lunch was a program planned by Shirley Hurwitz, Day Student social chairman, to bring out the heretofore unsuspected talents of both old and new girls. First on the program, Marie Taylor played such hits as "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" to set the mood for Nell Hunter and Mary Evelyn West, who played their interpretation of "The Moonlight Sonata" (which for the first few measures was beautifully Beethoven and the rest corny Hunter-West). Other "artists" were Dot Helms, with several lively hill billy renditions, including "Temptation"; Gwen Woodard, accompanied by Marie Taylor, with the ever-popular "As Time Goes By"; and Catherine Mims, with her version of what happens to a poor little innocent girl who has four years at Meredith. Virginia Campbell concluded the social hour with several popular selections on the piano.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS EXHIBIT ART WORK

The Meredith Art Department has sponsored this year two exhibits by members of the faculty. In the gallery now is the work of Mr. Douglas W. Reynolds, head of the Art Department. In the words of the preface to his exhibit, Mr. Reynolds expresses his general purpose and ideas. He says, "Good art should not require verbal or written explanation, but in the art-ignorant world of today, it may perhaps be of help. I have just spent a summer in painting made possible by the grant of an art study fund generously given me by Meredith College officials. I feel it is only fair, in presenting this exhibition of summer work, to make it useful and interesting to Meredith students in every way that I can. In the paragraph placed beneath all the pictures painted this summer, the methods and materials employed, as well as the artistical reasons the picture was painted, and a critical opinion as objective as possible, are given." Among the written opinions put in the ballot box was the following: "It is a strange and intriguing show. Some of the things have real power of a kind that I don't know in any other painter. The talk on the cards is an experimental art in itself."

Dr. Lillian Parker Wallace exhibited some of her work during the first two weeks of this school year. Most of the work exhibited consisted of naturalistic landscapes done in water colors. There were several pen and ink drawings and pencil sketches. All of her work is realistic and precise in detail.

Mary Beth Thomas has won first prize at the N. C. State Fair Exhibition for a self-portrait done in oil. Meredith Cash won second prize for an oil painting. Other entrants were Jean Bradley, Ida Wells, and Doris Johnson. It is interesting to note that officials of a National Art Exhibition in Asheville chose some of the work of Mary Beth for display there last summer.

TWIG WELCOMES NEW MEMBERS

The Twig staff welcomes four new members. Beth Boggs, Rosalind Knott, and Frances Lancaster have joined the reporting staff of the Twig. All these girls are freshmen and have had journalistic experience in working with their high school papers.

Ann Tongue, a junior transfer from Peace College, is a new member of the Twig business staff.
