

Today's Fashion Queen

DOROTHY PATRICK

A background of fall beauty is accentuated by Dot Patrick, appearing in a dress of rayon taffeta—a shimmering Nat Truman creation that is heightened by a dance of bronze dots. Her Black suede hat is fashioned with a halo of white ostrich plumes; her bag is a black suede "Hilf" original with matching shoes and gloves.

Forthcoming Music Plans

A few music plans for the near future have been announced which will be of interest to Meredith music lovers. The choir, under the direction of Dr. Cooper, and the Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Donley, have completed auditions and have begun regular rehearsals for the year. The choir will sing for the first time on November 5, for the Founder's Day program.

That famous "Group of Nine" which made a name for itself last year, has two important engagements coming up. Their first appearance will be in Clayton on October 8 when they will sing for the Baptist State Convention. They have been asked to perform at both the afternoon and evening sessions on the convening day.

Some of you will be glad to know that Charlie Stephenson and Marvin McDonald are again this year sponsoring a group of concerts in Raleigh. The concert schedule has been announced and includes the following attractions: Paul White-man and his orchestra presenting an all-Gershwin program on November 10; Marion Anderson, January 13; the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, January 27; and the First Piano Quartet, February 10. Jeannette McDonald, well known soprano of screen and concert, may appear as the fifth attraction.

Meredith students may look forward to many good music programs this year, both here at the college and in the city.

Sports of the Day

By SUE PAGE

The college year has started and is well on its way and most of us are getting used to the idea of studying once more. One of the best things about Meredith College is that they don't expect you to work all of the time, and they even provide for your moments of leisure with an array of sports which really make us able, like Portia, to face life.

Making a tour of the activities, the first stop-off is the stable. Five new horses have been added to the group. May I introduce you to these steady characters, or just to be punny, stable personalities. First there are the two new five-gaited horses, Top Hat and Chief. Both of these animals have a beautiful chestnut coat and mane. This summer they were used at a camp near Asheville and are in fine condition for all those interested in fine riding. Then there are three pleasure horses, Freckles, a roan, Little Beaver, who is all black, and Bay King, a big rangy bay.

Just to make riding even more interesting there is the Hoof-print Club whose only membership requirement is that you be enrolled in a riding class. This club sponsors such exciting programs as early morning breakfast rides, and moonlight rides, too, for the lovers of the celestial bodies! At their first meeting the new officers were elected. Peggy Patrick is the president, Pat Blackman, vice-president, Betty Jo Smith, secretary, and Diane Newton, treasurer. The best of all of their plans is the horse show to be held this spring.

October 16th will mark the observance of the 4th annual Cornhusking Bee. Everybody, including the Faculty, will join in the fun.

There is a great deal of interest being exhibited in the Freshman Tennis Tournament. If you haven't signed up to play, come on out and join in. They tell me that it is quite the racket.

B.S.U. NEWS

The Baptist Student Union initiated its first mass meeting on Wednesday, September 29. Heretofore, the B.S.U. has sponsored a Greater Council meeting to which Sunday School, B.T.U., and Y.W.A. officers were invited. However, this year, because the Baptist Student Union is the religious organization for the whole student body, the council decided to hold a monthly meeting for all students. The purpose of these meetings will be to acquaint students with the work of the B.S.U. as well as to hold general discussions on the problems which arise.

This first meeting was opened with a devotional by Sue Page, and a vocal selection by Nancy Hall. Marjorie Wilson, president of the B.S.U., introduced religious workers from various churches who were present to meet students attending the different churches.

Emily Pool, the enlistment vice-president explained that the B.S.U. and local churches urged students to bring their letters with them to the church of their choice for this year. Marjorie Joyner and Lois Pritchett spoke briefly on the reasons why they have joined a Raleigh church.

Beth Boggs, secretary, presented the program for the year, reminding everyone especially of the B.S.U. Convention which is to be held in Gastonia in November. Rosalind Knott, B.T.U. representative, announced that two seminars are to be held by Dr. Glenn Blackburn of Wake Forest in November. At the conclusion of the meeting, the Baptist, Methodists, and Presbyterian girls had the opportunity to meet the workers from those churches.

Poetry Association Sets Closing Date

The National Poetry Association has announced that November 5 will be the closing date for the submission of manuscripts for their Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Anyone interested in submitting poetry should mail it to the National Poetry Association, 3210 Selby Avenue, Los Angeles 34, California.

Thrift, a poem written by Esther Green, editor of the Acorn, was selected for publication last year by the N.P.A.

LITTLE THEATRE

torium by the Barter Theatre of Virginia. Programs for the Little Theatre group's monthly meetings deserve honorable mention. The first program will concern "try outs," and succeeding ones will be centered on such things as "lighting" and "make up." There will also be speakers from the workers at the Raleigh Little Theatre from time to time.

To balance work with play, cast parties will be given. Dinner at the S & W Cafeteria is only one of the suggestions for entertainment.
