

The Music Box

By Shelley Millican

Jean Olive, soprano, was presented in her graduation recital on April 28 in the auditorium. Highlights of her very difficult program were the "Cantate" by Mozart, the varied and extremely melodic Brahms group, and Verdi's brilliant aria "Ernani, Ernani, Involami" from the opera "Ernani." Bettie Compton was at the piano.

The chorus, directed by Miss Beatrice Donley, will give a concert tomorrow night, May 5, at eight o'clock in the auditorium. The program will consist of secular music. Some of the numbers are William Schumann's "Prelude" which was taken from Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward Angel," a group of songs for children in French by Poulenc, and a group of modern songs that include the traditional American tune "Turkey in the Straw." Preceding the performance of the chorus, the madrigal group will present a short program of English numbers.

Beta Zeta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota will sponsor Virginia Campbell, daughter of the college president, in a recital which should be of interest to everyone on May 7 at 8:00 p.m. in the recital hall. She will play portions of her recital that she played at Syracuse University as partial fulfillment for a Master's Degree. Other recitals on the calendar are the graduation recital of Jane Stroup, mezzo-soprano, on May 11, and two joint recitals by senior public school music majors. The first joint recital will be given May 9 by Joanne Mason, Margie Mullican, and Frances Ann Estridge.

COLLEGE CLOSSES SPRING ELECTIONS

In a previous election Doris Allen was elected secretary of the B. S. U.

STUDENTS END BUDGET

$1,050 from the students.

In the December 8 issue of the Twig, the first report on the drive from the chairman, Patsy Emory, was printed. The totals through December 4, 1950, taken from that report were $350 from the faculty and $242 from the students (one-fifth of their quota).

In a more recent report, the chairman stated that the faculty and administration had gone over their quota and that the students had met only about one-half of their $1,050.

PHIDO SAYINGS

Another school year is drawing to a close and the Phi Society will be losing quite a few of its active members. The fall semester will bring new members to fill their places but ones who can never quite take their places.

Some of our present Phis who are graduating are going to walk right up to the altar before very long; others will be working and some are going to do both.

Bettie Yates is going to be a June bride and has no definite plans beyond that. Sylvia Currin states that she will be teaching home economics, "destination unknown." Our present president, Virginia Jones, will be doing some type of social work. Hoping to be teaching the seventh grade somewhere nearby is Pat Lawrence.

Combining marriage and career will be Jane Earl Burch who will be living in Raleigh and who hopes to be in some type of religious education work also. Helen Brunson plans to be living in Raleigh, too, and hopes to teach in the city. Evelyn Wilson hopes to follow her husband-to-be to Louisville to the Seminary. Annie Pearl Brantley also plans to get married early this summer and she may teach in the fall.

Plans are wide and varied for others, but Phido wishes each and everyone all the luck and happiness possible.

Beth Morgan.

STAR GAZINGS

In preparation for the coming year, the Astrotekton Society has recently elected a new slate of officers. Norma Fagan, as president, heads a group of excellent officers which includes Adele Buening as vice-president, Miriam Allen as secretary, and Celia Wells, treasurer. Charleen Swanzy holds the position of sergeant-at-arms, and Faith Frye heads the marshals as chief Astro marshal.

Senior marshal is Francene King, Johnie Fisher represents the Junior Class, and Lib Crenshaw will serve as sophomore marshal. These girls were elected from a group of able candidates, and each one is well-fitted to do a grand job in her respective office.

The society council, a new body begun only this year, was elected to serve a two-year term, and its members will retain their positions throughout the coming year, aiding the society in formulating and carrying out its plans.

Now on the press is the new Astro handbook, which will contain such helpful information as a brief history of the society and its constitution, its songs, and customs, and a list of all present members.

Meeting the gang to discuss a quiz—a date with the campus queen—or just killing time between classes—the Field House at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge is one of the favorite places for a rendezvous. At the Field House, as in college campus haunts everywhere, a frosty bottle of Coca-Cola is always on hand for the pause that refreshes—Coke belongs.

Ask for it either way . . . both trade-marks mean the same thing.
