

Doris Perry to be "Twig" Editor

By MARGIE BLANKENSHIP

A lot goes on at Meredith. People who ruefully study low grades while whipping up a Palio costume all agree to that. Week events compose a college panorama of time-consuming fun, and life is never dull on the week-ends. Yet, for two-week-ends a month whenever fingers fly over the typewriter keys and the publications' room is littered with jean-clad girls, copy paper and coke bottles, you may be sure that D Day (deadline) for the TWIG staff has rolled around.

That's why choosing good leaders for the 1952-53 staff is so important. Doris Perry, whose only comment was that she was "real excited" about being next year's editor, has worked on the TWIG for three years. This young journalist from Elizabeth City has a full term ahead for she will add the TWIG leadership to her study of English and religion. "But I'm really looking forward to it all," she laughingly asserts.

Doris does not plan to enter the field of journalism, however. "I'll either teach or do church work," she explained, and then added with a twinkle in her eye, "Who knows? I might write a great book someday."

As her assistant editor, Doris has chosen Joan Langley of Lynchburg, Va. Although her main interest is home economics, Joan has enjoyed her TWIG responsibilities this year as managing editor. "I guess I first got the writing bug when I was literary editor of the 'High Times' back in the Lynchburg high school," she recalls. "When I graduate, I'll either teach home economics or be a home economist."

Both girls will assume the leadership of the TWIG for the last three issues of this term, under the guidance of Jeanne Ramsey, present editor, and Miss Norma Rose, adviser.

CAMPAIGN OPENS

Marie Edwards, Evelyn Krause, Jean Johnson, Sally Massey, Ann Lovell, B. A. Aldridge, Mary Evelyn Brown, Lucyann Liddy and Marjorie Barnes.

You will remember the two speakers, Hylia Stunts and Pyrette Coleo, who came to us from the W.S.S.F. They pointed out the terrific need of students all over the world and what we could do to help them. We need to remember that these students are struggling for a mere existence. Many are dying from T. B., mal-nutrition and other diseases, but they also need laboratory facilities, libraries, housing and even a place to sleep. They need help from their fellow students in America to answer some of their needs.

The goal for Meredith is $222.22. There is a collector on each hall. They are: Holly Howard, Mary Ann Chandler, Evelyn Krause, Dot Thomas, Shirley McLean, Georganna Joyner, Sue Fitzgerald, Jean Batten, Betty Jo Welch, Lucyann Liddy, Marjorie Stewart, and Alstine Salter.

George L. Hossfield Demonstrates Typewriting Methods and Techniques

George L. Hossfield, nationally-known authority on touch typewriting, gave a lecture-demonstration on typewriting methods, techniques, and requirements before an audience of business teachers and students from Cary High School, Broughton High School, Peace College, St. Mary's College, Hardbarger's Business College, and Hoyle's Business College March 3. After the demonstration refreshments were served in the blue parlor.

Mr. Hossfield, who is director of Underwood Corporation's Teachers' Advisory Service, is making a national educational lecture-demonstration tour. He will visit universities, teacher training colleges, and commercial and high schools during their regular sessions.

An author and lecturer, in addition to being a well known authority on typing methods, Mr. Hossfield has written numerous articles and has lectured throughout the United States on the subject of typewriting.

George Hossfield established a record of 143 net words a minute for one hour to win his first World's Professional Championship. In explaining his time, he said, "All of the records mentioned were made on the basis of counting actual words instead of counting each five strokes as one word, as is done on the present basis."

His highest official record, using the five stroke word count, is 139 net words a minute for one hour's typing from unfamiliar material. Mr. Hossfield has the distinction of being the only one to have ever won the World's Professional Typewriting Championship ten times.

The date for the beginning of the North Carolina District Music Contest is getting closer. The high-school contest begins March 11 and last through the 14 and will include voice, piano, chorus and band numbers. Many of us will want to listen to the participants of the high schools from which we have graduated.

The Sigma Alpha Iota fraternity met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Campbell February 26 and presented a musical at the end of a brief business meeting. Those on the program were: Jane Slate, Marion Winston, and Shelley Millican. After the Program, refreshments were served. Then everybody walked back to school in the snow!

The Raleigh Chamber Music Guild presented the "Chamber Music Ensemble" Saturday, March 1, Mr. Stuart Pratt and Miss Phyllis Weyer of our music department were in the ensemble. It was a very entertaining program, and one of the main interest was the harpsichord.

Those of us who heard Ruggerio Ricci, violinist, presented by the Civic Music Association will agree to his outstanding musicianship. I would like to mention, for the benefit of those who weren't able to attend, that right in the middle of the Bartok number one of his violin strings broke. It was a comical situation, but he went through the remaining portion of his program in grand style. Also, I would like to add that Miss Woodman had the privilege of turning pages for Ricci.

Forty-four members of the Meredith Chorus are going to sing for the annual W.M.U. Convention in Durham, March 12. They are singing the Brother James Air by Jacob, and Laudate, by Lowers.

Miss Jean Miller will sing in Greenville, N. C. this week-end at the home of Miss Louise Fleming.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB HEARS DR. HINES

The Sociology Club met February 27 at 7:00 p.m. with the members of the Sociology Clubs of Saint Augustine College and Shaw University at the Art Gallery of Shaw University. The speaker for this occasion was Dr. Hines of the Sociology Department of North Carolina College at Durham. Dr. Hines made a report on the studies he had made in mate selection among Negroes. After the meeting refreshments were served.
