Mathematics award announced

With the arrival of the 1986 Spring Semester came the fifth annual Freshman-Sophomore Mathematics Contest. Professor Kraines of the Department of Mathematical Science administered the three hour test to twenty-three participants on Saturday, January 18. The winners were recognized with awards at the Canady Math Club meeting on February 18.

Patricia Hall, a sophomore, won first place and was awarded a tuition scholarship of $200. Patricia received honorable mention in the 1985 contest. She has declared a double major in economics and mathematics. Freshman Mary Harper was awarded a $100 tuition scholarship for second place. Mary intends to study history and mathematics.

Teresa Swafford, a freshman, received honorable mention, and Gina Howard, a freshman, was given a special merit award. Teresa may study mathematics and business, and Gina contemplates a major in mathematics and computer science. Both students were awarded books.

Professors Vivian Kraines and Olive Taylor supervised the contest.

First given in 1982, the Freshman-Sophomore Mathematics Contest provides students with the opportunity to use problem-solving skills outside the confines of a particular course. Through the contest, the Department of Mathematical Sciences is pleased to recognize the academic interest and achievement of freshman and sophomore mathematics students, and it looks forward to sponsoring the contest next year.
