

career connections

Job Fair 1989 Information

On November 7 and 8, students from Meredith will join their counterparts from other private North Carolina colleges and universities at the High Point Radisson for Job Fair 1989. The annual event brings together under one roof students from eight higher education institutions and recruiters representing over 80 employers from business and industry, human services, and government.

Referred to as a "two-day job hunter's dream," the Job Fair provides an extraordinary opportunity for students to meet and interview recruiters from key companies and agencies. Developed by the schools' career services offices to supplement on-campus interviewing efforts, Job Fair attracts employers who might not visit smaller campuses.

Now in its sixth year, this year's Job Fair has moved from the college campus to a new upscale location at the Radisson Hotel in High Point, N.C. On Tuesday, November 7, students from all classes may participate in Information-Sharing Day. From 12:30 to 5:00 p.m., underclassmen, seniors, graduate students, and alums may talk informally with representatives about careers, companies, and employment opportunities. No prior registration is required.

Wednesday, November 8 has been reserved for seniors only. Devoted to pre-arranged formal interviews for seniors of all majors, Interview Day runs from 8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Interview schedules were employer selected on the basis of resumes submitted in September for from conversations on Information Day.

Job Fair 1989 is a joint venture of the N. C. Career Consortium, a group of eight North Carolina colleges and universities. Member institutions are: Davidson, Elon, Greensboro, Guilford, High Point, Meredith, Salem and Wake Forest. Organized in 1984, the Consortium has acquired the reputation of bringing together well qualified students with quality employers.

A list of employers will be published in next week's issue of the Herald.

Career Planning Courses Offered

Undecided about a College Major? Wonder If the one you have chosen is the right major for you? Do you know what your career options are for the major you've chosen? Consider registering for this class offered during the Spring Semester 1990.

Choosing a College Major and Career Planning Seminar (CPS 101) offered Mondays & Wednesdays from 4:00 p.m.- 4:50 p.m. 1 credit hour. Pass/fail grading.

Unclear about what to do with your major after graduation? Wonder what your options for employment might be? Do you know the techniques for a complete and successful job search?

Consider registering with your faculty advisor for Identifying a Career and Conducting a Job Search (CPS 301) offered Wednesdays 3:00 p.m.- 4:50 p.m. 1 credit hour. Pass/fail grading.

Both classes hear presentations weekly from women who have found successful careers in a variety of fields. Career planning is one of the most important processes each of us goes through. Take advantage of Meredith's semester-long assistance by registering for career planning seminars.