

photo by Lormarev Jones, staff photographer

The Revelers: (Clockwise from top) Adriana Galdo, Angie Lapino, Francesca Perez and Natalie Hoffman.

Continued from Page 2

phrasing is completely different from today."

Junior Laura Jernigan also had trouble keeping her performance authentic.

"I've had trouble keeping my movement from being modern," she said.

"The Brome Play of Abraham and Isaac" and "The Apple Tree" will be performed Thursday, April 1 at 8 p.m., Friday, April 2 at 8 p.m., Saturday April 3 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., and Sunday, April 4 at 2 p.m. Come out and support the Meredith College Department of Dance and Theatre!

The MEREDITH HERALD

Editor in Chief.....Tiffany Adams herald@meredith.edu

Managing Editor.....Margaret Ann Cooney
News Editor.....Christy Kimball
Features Editor.....Krista Kearney
Layout Editor.....Brandi Bowen
Business Manager.....Laura Bates
Advertising Managers....Jenna Hottel and Shruti Shah
Staff Photographer.....Lormarev Jones
Faculty Adviser.....Dr. Rebecca Duncan

Staff Reporters.

Nina Borum Cicely Clark
Lauren Combs Rachel Forshee
Katie Hughes Jessica Maurice
Jane Langford Keanicia Lucas
Autumn Metzger Andrea Neil
Amy Kay Nickerson Katie O'Neal
Mary Robbins Maria Santore
Audrey Tamer

The Meredith Herald is published by the College throughout the Academic Year. The paper is funded by the College and through Independent Advertising.

The opinions expressed in the editorial columns do not necessarily reflect those of the college administration, faculty, or student body.

Published by Hinton Press

NATIONAL POLITICS

DEMOCRATS RALLY TOGETHER FOR KERRY

KATIE O'NEAL
Staff Writer

Leading figures in the Democratic Party have rallied together to support Presidential hopeful John Kerry.

At the Democratic "unity" dinner, which took place in Washington this past Thursday night, former American presidents, Bill Clinton and Jimmy Carter placed their support behind Kerry. Clinton was quoted as saying, "If people think in this election, if they think about the choices that have been made and the vision John Kerry offers, we win."

Another significant and familiar figure who has placed his weight behind Kerry is Howard Dean. Dean, who at one point was leading the Democratic nominees, abandoned the presidential race in February after suffering serious losses in Iowa and New Hampshire. Dean and Kerry were known to have had conflicting policy stances. However, during a recent gathering at George Washington University, both men pledged to put past disputes behind them and move forward. Kerry told the crowd that both he and Dean recognize that the campaign is about doing what is best for the country.

Kerry stated, "It's not about a party. It's about our country. It's about you and your future."

Dean has given his full endorsement to Kerry, and is even using his campaign organization, "Democracy for America," to help Kerry's campaign. During the rally at George Washington University, Dean expressed his enthusiasm, by leading students in a chant of "Kerry, Kerry."

In addition to Dean's endorsement, Kerry has also received the backing the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. The support of this 1.3 million-member union will be a huge boost for Kerry's campaign.

On another note, Kerry has criticized President Bush's humor at this past Wednesday night's Radio and Television Correspondents' Association dinner in Washington. Bush poked fun at the fact that he and his administration were unable to locate any weapons of mass destruction in Iraq. Kerry viewed Bush's jokes on such a serious matter as inappropriate and "out of touch."

The recent endorsements Kerry has received will be an obvious benefit to his campaign. How significant of a boost the added support will give Kerry is yet to be determined.