A HYSTERECTOMY

FOR SMOKEY?

One day a few weeks ago a little black and white kitten wandered into the Town Hall fire house. It was skinny and looked a little the worse for wear. Well, the upshot was that Natalie Hiltz provided some food for the kitten, at least to tide it over until more permanent arrangements could be made. However, the kitten was quick to endear itself by dispatching a snake that made the mistake of looking in on things. Well, now it turns out that the kitten is of the feminine persuasion and unless the fire house is to become a haven for more kittens—as cats seem to have an astonishing proclivity for reproduction— a hysterectomy is necessary for "Smokey" ... what else: Your contributions to this worth while cause will be gratefully accepted by the fire department.
