

Johnson said that when his wife, Marge, went out to the street the following morning to get the newspaper, the sign and been knocked down and the pile kicked over into the yard. The police picked up the sign and at last report were holding it at Town Hall.

But it apparently was effective because so far there have been no more such piles in the Johnson driveway.

One of those participating in the discussion observed that dog owners can control their animals if they wish by tugging on the leash to get them off of walks and driveways when they're doing their business.

The conversation came a day or so after Irene Doremus suggested that Shore Line carry a piece reminding dog owners that the town has a leash law. Irene was irked by a woman she saw on the beach who had kicked only a light covering of sand on the mess her dog made on the beach.

On July 1, Bob Herbst will take over as chief of the Pine Knoll Shores Rescue Squad, and Gil Millington, another experienced emergency medical technician will become assistant chief. They will succeed Dan Sotir and Brenda Cox.

The town is fortunate to have such competent personnel manning the ambulance 24 hours every day, but more volunteers are needed. Training for ambulance attendants got under way at 7 p.m. June 19.

The PKA annual membership meeting will begin at 4p.m., Saturday June 23rd at the Bogue Banks Country Club and will be followed by a cocktail party (BYOL). Any member who has not received the official notice (including the bill for dues and sticker supplement) should call Secretary Flo Garrett - 726-1845.

The PKA Board of Directors thanks Betty and Carl Hammon for their generous donation of an outdoor grill. Now installed in Brock Basin, it is ready for your cook-out but you bring your own charcoal.

Reminder: PIKSCO annual meeting will be held on Friday, July 6 at 7:30 in Town Hall. Since the by-laws require a quorum to be present, members are urged to attend in person or to send their proxies to Box 366, Atlantic Beach, N. C., 28512.
