COMMISSIONERS START NEW TERM

At the December Commissioners meeting the re-elected incumbents, Mayor Hanan and Emily White, along with newly elected Evan Roderick took the oath of office from Town Clerk Corinne Geer and thus began the new term. The new board elected Ken Hanan mayor and Evan Roderick mayor pro tem. The retiring but never tiring [thank you, Liz Britton] Fred Libby was presented with a silver bowl in appreciation of the four years of service he gave as Planning Commissioner.

Assignments for Commissioner Johnson, Commissioner Sotir and Commissioner Emily White remain the same. Commissioner John Shedd will assume the planning board duties and Commissioner Evan Roderick will be in charge of streets and public property.

Commissioner Johnson reported revenues still ahead of expenditures and the year's taxes 45% collected. It is expected that the largest collection amount will occur in December.

Ex Commissioner Libby gave the Building Inspector's report. There was one residential permit issued in November, five miscellaneous permits and two certificates of occupancy.

Commissioner Shedd thanked Erma Johnson, Lois Jean O'Keefe and Bobby Ready for the Christmas decorations in the Town Hall. [Be sure to come by to see them.] He has also seen to the clean up of the right-of-ways containing brush, cinder blocks and stakes.

There were twelve rescue calls in November, Commissioner Sotir told us. Ten were emergencies and two were transports. That's a lot of calls for an "off season" month.

Police had 111 calls, 48 traffic violations and 253 house checks, Commissioner White reported. No fires. She requested that the Board approve the mutual aid agreements with Salter Path, Atlantic Beach and Emerald Isle. She also requested a budget appropriation for the two police cars, one to be ordered immediately and one to be ordered for July delivery. This was approved.

The Board voted a personnel ordinance revision to provide for the third office position now vacant.
