Madeline and Roger Middlesteadt, Maureen and Bob Danehy and Tom Martynowski took time out from sightseeing to have this photo snapped by a traveling companion as they toured the Acropolis in Athens. Danehy, who serves as a town commissioner, said the ruins in Athens were most impressive, as was a tour bus trip along the Amalfi coast that leaves tourists wide eyed as they negotiate hairpin turns. It was all part of a 10-day Mediterranean cruise the group took in May. They also went ashore at Istanbul, Rhodes and Santorini, among other stops. The cruise was preceded by a four-day visit to Rome.
