National Library Week

By Dot Miller

Brita Flynn, Andrew Porter, and Donna Freeman

Way back in the mid-1950s, long before the electronic age brought us wildly diverse entertainment, it was realized that Americans were reading less and libraries were underused. In response, the American Library Association and libraries across our country sponsored a National Library Week—a time when staff librarians, friends of the libraries and the reading public would celebrate the contributions of libraries to communities across America.

This year's observance, 53 years later, will be April 10-16—a great time for all residents of Bogue Banks to stop by our library and thank staff members Brita Flynn, Donna Freeman and Andrew Porter for all they do to make our library experiences so positive. On Thursday April 13, members of the Friends of the Library Board will fete our librarians with a special lunch and express the appreciation of the community for their contributions to the richness of our lives on Bogue Banks.

The Friends of the Library Board thanks the many people who came to the spring Used Book Sale April 1 and 2 and helped support the Bogue Banks Public Library with purchases—a win/win setup—good reading for buyers and funds for the library. Our next Used Book Sale will be August 12-13.
