groups and can include classes running three to six hours, on barrier island ecology, educational beach walks and turtle talks, lessons featuring the center's birds of prey as well as hands-on exploration of the maritime forest, sound, beach and an on-site freshwater pond. Sound to Sea can accommodate up to 96 children in four dorms. Lodging is also available for adult chaperones. All meals are provided onsite. One-day programs can be offered to meet a specific group's needs.

Summer camps for children in grades 3-12 run weekly in June, July and August. Camp activities include swimming, sailing, canoeing, arts and crafts, team sports, singing, skits and dances, as well as Christian education and worship.

The Trinity Center is also a resource for adults. For groups, it provides a place for retreats, conferences, workshops, training programs, team building sessions, family reunions and other gatherings. Reasonable rates for group meetings include not only meeting space but also lodging, three meals a day, audio-visual equipment, coffee set-ups and snacks for morning or afternoon breaks. For individuals, Trinity Center is a perfect location for seeking solitude to work through personal problems. Writers wanting quiet and the inspiration of a waterfront setting find facilities here as ideal for finishing a book. The center's Pelican House, on the oceanfront, is especially popular for guided spiritual retreats, silent retreats or just quiet personal time. During the off-season, Road Scholar (formerly Elderhostel), internationally known for educational travel and lifelong learning, offers a series of programs here, attracting people from all over to Trinity's beautiful setting for photography, birding, and the exploration of topics related to our coastal location.

For more information on programs, rates and scheduling, call 247-5600 locally or 1-888-874-6287. For more information about how you might help fund ongoing maintenance and capital needs of the Trinity Center, you may call Carl Ragsdale, Capital Campaign Chairman, at 726-3811 or e-mail crags1234@aolcom. Facing critical needs for its very survival, the Trinity Center welcomes donations made payable to Trinity and Beyond, PO Box 1336, Kinston, NC 28503 or online at www.trinityandbeyond.org.

Habitat Thanks Local Realtors

By Kris Durham

Crystal Coast Habitat received a check from the matching NC4Homes Foundation of $4,000. This grant was made possible thanks to local realtors who sponsored an annual golf tournament fundraising event at Starhill Golf Course last November. Their donations were matched by the state foundation. Local Realtor Association President Mark Mansfield presented Habitat Director Kris Durham with a check on the porch of a Habitat home located at 113 Faith Lane in Newport May 10.

Crystal Coast Habitat for Humanity had its 85th groundbreaking ceremony on May 17 for the Ware family. Habitat has built more than 80 homes locally and helped almost 500 individuals obtain housing during the past 23 years. If you would like more information on how to donate or help the local Habitat, please visit www.crystalcoasthabitat.org or call 223-2111.
