

Facts and Fancies from Fieldale

Miss Frances Hundley, above, valedictorian of the graduating class of Fieldale high school, 1944, leads her class with the fine average of 95.1. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hundley.

Miss Genevieve Via, above, salutatorian of the graduating class of Fieldale high school, 1944, whose excellent average of 94.7 is topped only by that of Miss Hundley.

Congratulations, Frances and Genevieve.

Fieldale News

By Faye P. Warren

Dear Service Men:

It seems the graduating class of Fieldale HI have the biggest place in the news this week. There were 25 who received their diplomas on Tuesday night, May 23. Fellows, you should have seen the auditorium; it has been newly painted and new curtains were secured for the stage; the stage was really beautiful, the curtains being ivory and burgandy in color, and the flowers were arranged in the patriotic scheme red, white and blue. The salutatory address was given by Genevieve Via and the valedictory by Frances Hundley. J. W. Stone was the speaker for the evening. The Citizenship Cup was won by Miss Edith Hall and the American Legion medal by Nadine Shelton. The Sunday evening address to the seniors was given by the Rev. J. Landon Maddox of Roanoke, Va. Pvt. J. W. Norris, Jr. was the only member of the class unable to receive his diploma in person, but J. W. your Dad did a fine job for you, and may we say to you and to the other 24 members of your class "congratulations and our very best wishes."

Well fellows, I don't think I ought to tell this but you won't say anything about it, I mean where Mr. Ripple might hear about it, will you? Fellows, he's been fishing again, but he didn't fall in the water a single time. "No siree." He just fell in three times, that's all. By the way, maybe that's the latest discovery for more successful fishing. Is it Mr. Ripple?

P. S. Boys, Mr. Campbell didn't tell on himself, only on Mr. Ripple.

Well after that last bit of news your reporter may be reporting to you for the last time, if so, good luck fellows, and may God bless each of you always.

Sincerely,

FAYE WARREN.

WELCOME, SCHOLARS

life and your school life were so closely blended that it was difficult to tell where one started and the other ended.

To those of you who seriously contemplate making your careers with us we would like to say this: You are making a good choice. But never for a moment believe that when you have graduated from high school or college your schooling is ended. Far from it. You must study your job each day, make a sort of text book of it. When you've mastered the "text book" you've mastered your job and can step on to something better—just as you advance to a higher grade when you've mastered the lower one.

Our company is looking for boys and girls like you; ambitious youngsters who want to learn. There is no limit to your possibilities. There's always plenty of room just ahead, and the more you devote your time and energies to mastering your job the faster you will advance to the "higher grade."

We welcome you, Future Leaders of America, and always keep in mind that there is always plenty of room at the top. That's where you fine, intelligent youngsters are headed for.
