"GIFT STREET" BOX packages a new line of fancy-bed sheets and pillow cases introduced by Fieldcrest Mills. Embossed design of a quaint street scene on coated stock provides attractive all-occasion gift package. Contents card inside the cellophane wrap in package repeats the stage-coach motif and includes a tiny artificial blossom. Sheets shown are Floral border on white percale.

Rod And Gun Club Gets Corporation Charter

The Rod and Gun Club meets at the consolidated Central Y.M.C.A. on every second and fourth Tuesday. At present there are 50 members on roll. New memberships will be open Sept. 1.

MOTHER A MANAGER

What is management?

Well, every home has a manager, just like every business, large or small. When Mothers gets her husband off to work, sees the children on the way to school, and buys food and household supplies from the stores, she is a part of "management." The prosperity and happiness of the home depends largely upon how well she does her managing.

Guess Who?

Can you identify the persons in above photograph? Both of them are now grown men, well known in community and long service employees of Fieldcrest Mills. (Their names printed upside down below.)

Ernest Brim, Model E Spinning and Spinning at the Blanket Mill, Clarence Combs, foreman of Cotton at the Blanket Mill, Ernest Shively, Secretary of the Rod and Gun Club.
