

Doctors and nurses check prospective donors before they give blood. Above, Russell Turner, of Canteen Service, has medical history taken by nurse from regional Blood Center in Charlotte. At right, Ron Kirk, of Karastan, has pulse and temperature checked before donating blood.

At left, blood donor Jean Booth, draw-in hand at Blanket Mill, served refreshments by Vivian Blackwell, Red Cross volunteer worker. Above, group of blood donors includes Wayne Hall, Catherine Haynes, of Blanket Mill Weave Room; Grace Lawson, of Sheeting Mill Inspection Department; and Phillip Young, Blanket Mill Yarn Preparation Department.

Fieldcrest employees gave 73 pints of blood, or 87 per cent, of the total of 84 pints contributed when the Bloodmobile visited the First Methodist Church in Draper June 16.

Bloodmobile officials, disappointed in the number of donors—less than half of the quota of 175,—expressed hope that the poor showing in June can be offset by a large turnout at the Leaksville Bloodmobile July 28.

Fieldcresters who gave blood were:
