

FRANKLIN R. FULCHER

VADA H. PATTERSON

PAUL W. HARVEY

Three Honored For 40 Years Of Service

Franklin R. Fulcher and Vada H. Patterson, both of the Towel Mill, and Paul W. Harvey, of the Sheeting Mill have completed 40-year records of continuous service with the company.

Each of the long-service employees has been presented with the Fieldcrest diamond-and-gold 40-year service emblem and a letter of commendation from Harold W. Whitcomb, chairman of the board, Fieldcrest Mills, Inc.

Mr. Fulcher, a native of Patrick County, Va., joined the Towel Mill as a spare hand in the Weave Room, January 1, 1928. He soon became a weaver and continued as a weaver until 1944 when he became a loom fixer. He was promoted to assistant foreman in 1952 and continues to serve in that capacity.

Mrs. Patterson, also a Patrick County native, first worked as a spooler tender at the Towel Mill. She worked for a time as winder tender but later returned to the spooling classification. She became a warper creeler in 1946 and continues to work in that classification.

Mr. Harvey, a Draper native, was first employed as a roving man in the Sheeting Mill Spinning Department. He subsequently worked as an oiler and bander before becoming a doffer in 1935. He was in military service during World War II and after his return worked briefly as a doffer before he was promoted to ring spinning fixer. He continued to work in that classification until 1962, when he became a spindle plumber-overhauler, in which classification he continues to serve.

RCC Program Receives National Attention

The "Great Decisions" program at Rockingham Community College is featured in a new publication of the Foreign Policy Association entitled "Junior Colleges Can Provide Leadership in World Affairs Education."

The booklet, which is presently being distributed throughout the United States, uses Rockingham Community College as an example of how a community college can conduct an effective "Great Decisions" program.

Rockingham Community College in cooperation with local clubs, schools, industries, churches and libraries, has sponsored a "Great Decisions" program during the past two years. In 1966 the college organized some 30 to 35 discussion groups, 10 of which were high school groups. In addition, the college sponsored a well attended public forum at the end of the eight-week program. Approximately 900 people participated in "Great Decisions . . . 1966," in discussion groups throughout the county.

In 1967 the college program concentrated on adults groups. Twenty-five discussion groups were formed involving approximately 500 to 600 people. The college also sponsored a series of eight public forums at the college, featuring prominent public speakers. An additional 500 to 700 people were involved on a regular basis in the forum series, attending the lectures and sometimes participating in discussion groups as well.

"Great Decisions" is an annual discussion program on eight key foreign affairs issues. The program is structured around small, informal discussion groups
