

N. C. Finishing Makes Housekeeping Improvements

Machine Shop (above) and Grey Room #2 (at right) are examples of improved housekeeping at North Carolina Finishing Company division.

New Group Is Receiving Supervisory Training

(Continued from Page Four)

three two-hour sessions daily and are given a two-hour study period. After the yarn manufacturing and weaving parts of the program, the men are given short mill assignments in laboratories and with fixers.

The training program was organized by the Fieldcrest Training Department with cooperation of the Rockingham Community College.

Those currently enrolled for the training and their former mill connections are: Franklin Witherspoon, Sheeting Weave Room; Mike Dineen, Bedspread Dyeing; Jerry Reese, Draper Standards; Philip Hopper, Karastan Shop; John Harden, Bleachery Piece Dyeing; Clarence Hale, Bedspread Weave Room; Jay Via, Karastan Laboratory; Melvin Layman, Karastan Weave; Mike Hammock, Bedspread Laboratory; Roger Borgersen, a management trainee; and Charles Moore, new employee.

5,000 Jobs Added

(Continued from Page One)

of $5,844,448,815, according to the report.

Only workers covered by state Employment Security Law were counted. Therefore agricultural employees and those civilians employed in federal installations are not covered.

Federal institutes in North Carolina reported a monthly average of 43,797 civilian workers with payrolls amounting to $274,000,000, the report said.

These scenes showing portions of the Machine Shop and Grey Room #2 at the North Carolina Finishing Company at Salisbury illustrate the tremendous improvement in housekeeping that has been achieved in all departments during recent months.

In the Machine Shop, the brick walls were washed and cleaned and the ceiling was repainted. The machinery, workbenches and cabinets were cleaned and repainted and parts of the floor were refinished.

The men shown in the Machine Shop are K. J. Bates (nearest the camera) and Floyd T. Dennis.

In Grey Room #2, the walls, posts and ceiling were repainted. Overhead lights were cleaned and replaced. All of the equipment and underneath the equipment were repainted. Note the orderly storage of rolls and the clear, uncluttered aisle.

The men in the Grey Room are Herbert R. Warford (nearest the camera) and R. G. Watson, Jr.

Community Fund Drive Continuing In Mills

(Continued from Page One)

continuance of the 11 health, welfare and recreational services included in the campaign.

This year's goal compares with last year's goal of $90,000. Included is a contingency amount of $5,284, mainly to take care of uncollected pledges and as a small reserve fund for unexpected needs.

The campaign in the community began Monday, October 14 and continues through Monday, October 28, or until the goal is reached. John E. Grogan is general chairman of the community-wide campaign.

The fund requests of the agencies were carefully reviewed and studied by the Budget and Admissions Committee. The amounts approved represent only the funds needed for essential services in the community.

Eleven agencies which were formerly in the collective fund effort are again included.

The amount allotted to each agency follows: Red Cross, $10,037; Salvation Army, $7,169; Retarded Children, $2,500; Central YMCA, $17,889; Henry Street YMCA, $2,585; Draper YMCA, $10,868; Boys Club, $12,075; Girl Scouts, $4,735; Boy Scouts $12,288; Rescue Squad, $5,446; Carolinas United, $6,624; and contingencies, $5,284.

THE MILL WHISTLE