

Representative of the 102 students given summer jobs by Fieldcrest is Edward R. Taylor, shown on his job as a cloth hauler in the Blanket Mill Weave Room.

This is the second summer that Mr. Taylor has worked at Fieldcrest and he will use his earnings to help pay his college expenses. A rising sophomore at North Carolina State University, he is majoring in industrial engineering and hopes to join Fieldcrest upon graduation.

His father, Robert E. Taylor, is a tie-in operator on the third shift in the Blanket Mill Weave Room.

Fieldcrest Employs Over 100 For Summer

Giving as many summer jobs as possible to college students and recent high school graduates has been the policy of the company for many years. As a result, 102 students are holding summer jobs at the Eden mills and offices this year.

When hiring students for temporary jobs, the company gives special consideration to the children of Fieldcrest employees. Sixty-one of the 102 working this summer have a parent or parents employed by the company.

To be considered for employment, the student must be available for the job and shift required. If not, the job is given to some other applicant regardless of whether he or she is the child of a Fieldcrest employee. And, generally, there are more people wanting jobs than there are jobs available.
