Six Textile School Officials Visit Fieldcrest

Fieldcrest Mills was host in November to six representatives of textile schools in the South. The faculty members were here to see new installations and operations and to meet with Fieldcrest management and with alumni of the textile schools.

Attending were Professor J. W. McCarty, assistant director of the Textile School, Georgia Institute of Technology; Professor Thomas D. Efland, School of Industrial Management and Textile Science, Clemson University; Dr. Clinton H. Whitehurst, head, Industrial Management Department, Clemson University; Professor Cleveland L. Adams, head professor of Textile Engineering,

Auburn University; Dr. David W. Chaney, dean, School of Textiles, North Carolina State University; and Professor Dame Hamby, head, Department of Textile Technology, North Carolina State University.

The two-day visit included tours of the Fieldale Towel Mill, the Sheet and Bedspread Finishing Mills, the Bedspread Mill and the Fieldcrest Store.

Also on the program was a dinner meeting with mill managers and major staff department heads, a luncheon with some of the corporate officers and a luncheon with Fieldcrest alumni of the schools represented by these faculty members.
