

Wool Spinning Group Is Honored For 1¼ Million Safe Man-Hours

Employees of the Wool Spinning Department at the Blanket Greige Mill enjoyed a "safety break" in celebration of their outstanding record of over 1¼-million man-hours without a lost-time accident. There has been no disabling injury in the department since September 24, 1965.

In recognition of the employees' fine safety performance, a table was set up in the center of the department and free coffee and doughnuts were served to employees on all shifts. Congratulations were extended to the employees by D. R. Johnson, superintendent of woolen system yarn manufacturing, and D. P. Gambill, section foreman of wool spinning.

Right, at Wool Spinning Department "safety break", Lee Roy Gammon, fixer, Helen Horsley and Pauline McBride, Model E spinners, are congratulated by D. R. Johnson, superintendent of woolen system yarn manufacturing.
