

Promotions Made At Blanket Finishing

Six organizational changes have been announced at the Blanket Finishing Mill, effective recently.

Carson Oakley, previously superintendent of the Beck Dyeing Department, has been named superintendent of the Beck Dyeing and Cloth Finishing Departments.

Quesell Scott, Jr., previously superintendent of the Napping Department, has been named superintendent of the Napping, Treating and Channel Blanket Departments.

Robert L. Glasgow, previously superintendent of the Packaging, Warehousing and Channel Blanket Departments, has been named superintendent of the Cut and Sew, Packaging and Warehousing Departments.

Oliver E. Hopkins, Jr., previously a shift foreman in the Cut and Sew Department, has been named a section foreman in the Blanket Packaging Department.

Billy G. Lester, formerly a shift foreman in the Blanket Warehouse, has been named a section foreman in the Blanket Warehouse.

Jerry M. DePriest, formerly a supervisory trainee, has been named a shift foreman in the Cut and Sew Department.

Mr. Oakley has been employed by Fieldcrest since 1950 when he began as a second hand at the old Bleachery. He went to the Blanket Finishing Mill in 1952 where he worked as a section hand, second hand, head scheduler, assistant foreman and foreman before being named superintendent of the Beck Dyeing Department in 1970.

Mr. Scott began employment at the Blanket Finishing Mill in 1956 as a trucker and server. He worked as a server and packer, service operator-cutters and sewers, sewing machine service operator, blanket checker clerk, second hand, assistant foreman and foreman before being named general foreman of the Napping Department in 1970.

Mr. Glasgow joined Fieldcrest as a management trainee at the Blanket Finishing Mill in 1966. He then worked as an assistant foreman and was foreman, systems coordinator, and general foreman at the Blanket Warehouse before being named superintendent of the Packaging, Warehousing and Channel Blanket Departments.

Mr. Hopkins has been employed by Fieldcrest since 1963 when he began as a roll channel blankets helper at the Blanket Finishing Mill. He then worked as a plaiter-blanket finishing range, dyestuff weigher, supply room clerk, second hand, assistant foreman, and supply clerk before becoming a supervisory trainee in May, 1972 and a shift foreman in June of that year.

Mr. Lester joined Fieldcrest in 1961 as an office boy at the Blanket Warehouse. He then worked as a blanket release clerk, clerk, advanced scheduler, chief clerk, mill scheduler, assistant office manager and second hand before being named a shift foreman in 1973.

Mr. DePriest joined Fieldcrest in March of 1973 as a supervisory trainee. He had formerly been employed by Laughlin-Sutton Construction Company in Hillsborough, and earlier by the Hillsborough Textiles Company, also in Hillsborough.

Ladies Have Long Records Of Service

Rose Tripp and Ione Vick have the longest service records of any employees at Fieldcrest's Greenville plants.

Both ladies began work in the Twist, Wind and Reel Department at the Karastan Spinning Mill early in 1951.

Mrs. Vick, a twister, was the first twister to be hired at the Greenville plant. Her two brothers, John and Shirley Stocks, also work at Fieldcrest and both have continuous service since 1957. John is in the Plant Services Department at Karastan Worsted and Shirley is in the Carding Department at Karastan Spinning. Mrs. Vick's husband, William, is in the housepainting business.

Mrs. Tripp, a native of Metz, France, came to the United

RAY GILBERT

The American textile industry consists of about 700 companies operating an estimated 7,080 plants in 47 states.

Deadline Is March 1

March 1 is the deadline for submitting an application for a Fieldcrest or a Muscogee Scholarship. Awards of the scholarships are to be announced in May.

In recent years the deadline has been advanced and the application blanks made available earlier in order to help students with their planning.

The Fieldcrest and Muscogee Scholarships, each worth $4,000 over the four years of college, are awarded by the Fieldcrest Foundation and the Muscogee Mills Foundation to assist employees and children of employees in obtaining a college education.

Jay Young

Jay Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Young of Eden, celebrated his first birthday on December 5. His mother, Betty, is employed at the Bedspread Finishing Mill. His father is a weaver at the Karastan Rug Mill. Grandmothers are Mrs. Gladys Young, a retired employee of the Draper Sheeting Mill, and Mrs. Pearl Kennon, both of Eden.

One Year Old

Stephanie L. Geter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geter, was one year old on November 29. Her father is employed in the Warehouse at the North Carolina Finishing Company.
