

Chatting following luncheon are 50-year employees Betty Ratliff, S. L. Golden, H. T. Lee, A. D. Weaver, T. E. Bondurant and J. W. Page.

Left to right, Allie Houchins, 50-year employee; K. W. Fraser; 50-year men J. T. Tolbert, B. C. Murray, G. H. Simpson and J. T. Patterson.

50-Year Employee Is Honored At Luncheon

(Continued from Page One)
 employees. It is much better now than when I first came to work," Mr. Gallimore said.
 Haven H. Newton, vice president-industrial relations, presided and called on Jones Norman, Leaksville personnel manager for the invocation. Mr. Newton then recognized each of the members of the 50-Year Club.

 Fifty-year employees attending the luncheon included in addition to Mr. Gallimore, A. D. Weaver, Hugh T. Lee, J. Thomas Patterson, Betty H. Ratliff, Stuart L. Golden, Bradley C. Murray, Jesse W. Griggs, John T. Tolbert, Glenn H. Simpson, Allie M. Houchins, T. Earl Bondurant, and John W. (Bill) Page.

 Company officials attending in addition to those previously mentioned were K. W. Fraser, vice president-finance and treasurer, Dr. L. H. Hance, vice president-research and engineering; D. T. Arnold, plant manager of the Bedspread Mill; W. A. Mumpower, superintendent of weaving at the Bedspread Mill; R. L. Wilkes, manager of employee benefits and services; and W. O. Marlowe, editor of The Mill Whistle.

 Robert A. Harris, executive vice president, and Frank E. Barron Jr., division vice president of bedspread manufacturing, sent regrets that they could not be present.

From left, W. G. Hunnings, 50-year men T. E. Bondurant and J. H. Gallimore, A. L. Jackson, J. W. Griggs, 50-year man; and Dr. L. H. Hance.

Bedspread Mill group includes B. C. Murray, J. T. Tolbert and J. H. Gallimore, 50-year men; D. T. Arnold, J. W. Norman and W. A. Mumpower.

Artrain Will Be At Smithfield Plant

(Continued from Page One)
 assistance from the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation.
 Mrs. James E. Holshouser Jr., is serving as honorary chairman and urges all North Carolinians to take advantage of this opportunity. Mrs. Holshouser together with state arts officials will be on hand as the festival is launched at Smithfield September 13.13.
 The Artrain, as thousands of North Carolinians will see it, is being presented by the Michigan Arts Council. While there is an educational emphasis toward young people, the Artrain holds treats for grownups, too. All are invited to share the unique display of original art.
 Artrain will bring to Smithfield an impressive display of original works by Picasso, Rodin, Matisse and others. Many of the works to be exhibited are by major Southeastern artists. Of particular interest will be works by seven artists from the Tar Heel state.

 Each of the communities visited will develop a program unique to its area with the best of its artistic resources, including the performing arts, crafts, literature and the performing arts. In each local area an educational director has been working since early spring with school superintendents, principals, teachers and students.
 The Artrain is the brainchild of Mrs. William Milliken, wife of Michigan's governor, and E. Ray Scott, executive director of the Michigan Council for the Arts, a state agency. They pushed the idea to fruition after seeing the success of an automotive van art gallery in a remote section of northern Michigan.

 Michigan maintains a role in planning the Artrain tours, hiring the staff and assigning coordinators for the program, education and community involvement to do advance work. Each host community prepares a site, provides power hookups, houses the resident Artrain staff and publicizes the visits, beginning as much as six months in advance.

James Gallimore, 50-Year Man, Has Achieved Outstanding Record

(Continued from Page One)
 School and estimates that he has trained from 40 to 50 other fixers. He has about as much experience and knowledge of Jacquard heads as anyone in the company.
 He at times has worked with the Mechanical Development Department on various projects for the Bedspread Mill and worked with the late Ivor Moberg on the development of the loom to make the first loop pile bedspread.
 Mr. Gallimore is an avid trout fisherman and enjoys hunting of all kinds. He also likes to work in his garden and frequently helps out with the cooking at home. He is married to the former Loma Hatcher who is retired as a copyist in the Karastan Designing Department. They live at 917 Tulloch Street where they have owned their home for many years.

 Mr. and Mrs. Gallimore have three children: Mrs. H. C. Hutcherson of Eden, Mrs. James Kallam of Atlanta, and Michael Gallimore who graduated in pharmacy at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is employed by Duke Hospital. They also have five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.