Constitution Week

Constitution Week will be observed locally and nationally September 17 through September 23. The special week commemorates the signing of the Constitution of the United States of America, the oldest constitution still in active use. It is the basic document of our government, a government that protects the individual rights of its citizens.

The observance of Constitution Week is sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution who urge all Americans to join in appropriate programs and ceremonies to the end that they might have a better understanding of the Constitution and of the rights and obligations of United States citizenship.

In Eden the observance is under the auspices of the George Reynolds chapter of the D. A. R. Mrs. James Wright is the regent and Mrs. J. P. Elliott is chairman of the Constitution Week committee.

"The purpose of the observance of this week is to renew our appreciation of our Constitution and our country. The Daughters of the American Revolution ask that all citizens join in dedicating ourselves anew to preserve the priceless heritage of freedom bequeathed to us by the Founding Fathers," Mrs. Elliott said.

"We particularly want to urge that the American flag be flown at each household and business place during Constitution Week," Mrs. Elliott added.

What The Constitution Means

It establishes for you a stable and responsible government.

It makes you a citizen of the United States, if native born.

It gives you citizenship, if foreign born, on complying with liberal naturalization laws.

It allows you a voice in the government through the officials whom you help to elect.

It guarantees you life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

It defends your rights even against the government itself.

It makes you equal with all men before the law.

It confirms your religious freedom, and liberty of conscience.

It accords you free, lawful speech.

It guarantees you together with all people the right of peaceable assembly.

It permits you to petition the government to right your wrongs.

It guards your property rights.

It prohibits the government from taking your property without due process of law.

It lets you hold any office in the gift of the nation for which you are qualified.

It enables you to become a citizen of any state.

It prevents you from being held to answer to a complaint unless you have been lawfully accused.

It insures your right of trial by jury of your fellow men.

It grants you the right of habeas corpus, that is, the right to know why you are held a prisoner.

It assures you a speedy trial.

It permits your having counsel for defense.

It prevents your being tried again if once acquitted.

It permits you to have a trial in the state and district in which you may be charged with an offense against the laws.

It lends you the power of government to compel witnesses to appear in your behalf.

It relieves you from compulsion to testify against yourself.

It forbids excessive bail.

It forbids excessive fines or cruel punishment.

It protects you from slavery in any form.

It keeps any state from depriving you of your constitutional rights.

It sanctions your bearing arms for the protection of your life and home.

It secures your home from search except by lawful warrant.

It guarantees you that the legal obligation of contracts shall not be impaired.

It permits you to participate in amendment of the Constitution from time to time.
