

American Treasures Designs Used For Costumes In Play

Terre Cofield wears 'Printing Block Rose'

Gene Jones Wearing 'Patience Rose'

Claudia Whittaker in 'Aimee's Patchwork'

Left to right standing are Rose Marie Cooper, Gene Jones, Claudia Whittaker and Terre Cofield. Kneeling are Cynthia Weavil, left, and Peyton Clark.

Products in Fieldcrest's American Treasures Collection, based on designs in the Smithsonian Institution, were used in costumes in the play, "Oh, Penelope" presented for students in the Eden City Schools.

The musical, written by Rose Marie Cooper of Greensboro, was based on the Edenton Tea Party and climaxed "Awareness Week" at the schools. The special week was observed by fifth and sixth grade students and focused on the importance of the American Revolution.

The costumes, in authentic colonial styles, were designed and sewn by Petyon Clark, lecturer in the Department of Clothing and Textiles in the School of Home Economics at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Cynthia Weavil, the current holder of the Fieldcrest home economics scholarship at UNC-G.

Pictures on this page show some of the participants in the play as they visited the Fieldcrest Store, where displays featured the American Treasures Collection.

Three Years Old

Alexir Henriga Hairston celebrated his third birthday on February 24. His mother, Richetta Hairston, is employed in the Spinning Department at the Fieldale Towel Mill. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. Hairston of Route 3, Bassett.

Johnson Children

Robie Johnson, four years old, and David Johnson, 10 months old, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson. Their father is employed in the Plant Service Department at the Karastan Rug Mill. Their mother (Dorothy) is secretary to the plant manager at the Bedspread Finishing Mill.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Johnson of Eden. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wray. Mr. Wray is employed in the Weave Room at the Bedspread Mill.

Carter Children

Laura Jane Carter, two years old, and Terry Carter, Jr., seven years old, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Carter. Maternal grandparents are Mr.

and Mrs. Elmer Hawks. Mr. Hawks is a retired Fieldcrest employee and Mrs. Hawks (Mae) works in the Weave Room at the Blanket Greige Mill.

Vacation Schedule

(Continued From Page One)

this schedule, the employees affected will be notified by their mill management.

A more detailed announcement concerning the vacation schedule will be made nearer the date of the annual shutdown.

FOR SALE: Coal at $2.00 per bag. Call Estelle Moretz, 236 Adams Street, Eden, 623-6468.

WANTED: Strawberry plants. Call 349-3485 after 5 p.m.

FOR SALE: Canister-type Eureka vacuum cleaner, like new, six attachments including Vibo-Beat for shag carpet. $50. Also will sell girl's 20" bicycle for $10. Call Fieldcrest extension 9968 or call 627-0570 after 5 p.m.

NCF Award

(Continued From Page One)

Handicapped." At that time the division also received the national "American Legion Certificate of Appreciation for Outstanding Achievement in Providing Employment for the Handicapped."

The records show that of NCF's approximately 650 employees at the end of 1974, 22.8 percent had some sort of handicap. During 1974, 15.6 percent of the new hires in the division were handicapped people.