Credit Union

The Fieldcrest Mills Credit Union has paid a dividend of at least 4 percent per annum each six months since it was organized.

The Credit Union early in 1968 reduced the interest rate charged on loans from 1 percent to nine-tenths of 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance.

With assets of over $6½ million, the Fieldcrest Mills Credit Union has over 9,000 members representing 80 percent of those eligible to join. In the Eden area, a whopping 94 percent of the employees are members.

One of the main purposes of the Credit Union is to provide a place where members can save regularly and conveniently and receive a fair return on their investment.

Another purpose is to make low-cost loans to members to help them with important purchases or tide them over financial emergencies. Since its organization, the Credit Union has made a total of over 126,000 loans totaling over $26 million.

L. E. Chewing, president of the Credit Union, urges the members to make full use of the Credit Union for both saving and borrowing. He invited those employees who are not already members to join the Credit Union.

Statements have been distributed to all members showing the amount of the latest dividend, the member's share account, the loan balance, if any, and the interest paid.

If any member failed to receive his or her statement, or if there is any error, the member should notify the Credit Union office.

She: "I certainly don't like all these flies."

He: "You just pick out the ones you like and I'll kill the rest."
