enthusiasm. In keeping with the number and diversity of the collections, all press parties were planned to introduce the two major offerings. About 100 members of the New York magazine and newspaper press gathered at the newly-decorated Tavern On The Green in Central Park for the production of the "Romance, International Style," a collection inspired by the work of Gustav Zumsteg a renowned designer of couture fabrics. Candlelight, banks of springlike flowers, and attractive room setting vignettes set the mood. Guest of honor was Gustav Zumsteg who was joined by internationally famous celebrities including Federico Forquet and Marella Agnelli, a well-known socialite and designer.
