

At luncheon, from left, H. H. Newton, W. O. Marlowe, Anne Marlowe, Jones Norman.

Co-Workers Honor W. O. Marlowe

At reception, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Marlowe.

Before Otis Marlowe retired on April 1, after more than 30 years as editor of The Mill Whistle, a number of events were held in his honor.

On Wednesday, March 30, a luncheon was held for Mr. Marlowe at Meadow Greens Country Club which was attended by more than 80 Fieldcrest employees. A special guest at the luncheon was his wife, Anne, a retired Fieldcrest employee.

Brief remarks were made by H.H. Newton, vice president-Industrial Relations, who presented Mr. Marlowe with a gift from all those attending. Jones Norman, area personnel manager of the Karastan and Bedspread Mills, mayor of Eden, and a long-time personal friend of the Marlowes, also spoke briefly after which Mr. Marlowe addressed the group.

A reception was held Thursday, March 31, in the conference room at the General Offices from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. during which a large number of

(Continued To Page Six)

Harold W. Whitcomb, right, former president and retired chairman of the board of Fieldcrest Mills, Inc., chats with W. O. Marlowe at reception.

THE MILL WHISTLE
 Vol. 85 Ed. No. 10
 Congratulations
 Mr. Otis Marlowe
 On Your Retirement
 From Fieldcrest