

Happenings . . .

(Editor's Note: Although it is not the usual policy of the Mill Whistle to publish poems, the following was submitted with total consensus of employees at the Los Angeles Service Center. The poem was written by Ron Burnett in tribute to an exceptional employee, Dorothy Paulson, customer service representative. As the year ends and New Year's resolutions come to mind, reflect upon your own working image. Can this be said about YOU?)

SHE'S JUST A NICE LADY

She's just a nice lady as you can see.
Give yourself a chance and look at her personality.
She's just a nice lady smiling all the time.
Seems never to have a problem
ever on her mind.
I know she deals with the world,
but it doesn't really show.
Wow! Wouldn't it really be nice to have such a pleasant glow.
Depending on her to solve problems,
which she handles very well.
It seems as though she is blessed with a gift,
and we can surely tell.
She's just a nice lady as I have explained.
A vote of thanks we give to her
and hope that it remains.
There's only one thing left for us to say.
And that is for God to Bless Her,
And keep her in his way.

WINNING SAFETY SLOGAN—Bertha King, a reeler in the Twist-Wind-Reel Department at Karastan Spinning Mill, right, was presented a gift set of towels by Dick Riddick, general foreman, left, for her winning entry in November safety slogan contest.

The slogan was: Driving a car is not a game, Life and Death are not the same. Obey the law, do what you can, Look out for self and the other man.

'Back In School'

Building conference room for two weeks.

In addition to the Introduction To Textiles course, a number of other college-credit textile courses will be available from North Carolina State University School of Textiles in January, and may be offered to Fieldcrest employees, depending on demand. Among those available are Fabric Forming Systems, Management and Control of Textile Systems, Technology of Dyeing and Finishing Yarn Forming Systems Yarn Procession Dynamics, and Dye Synthesis.

Educational programs such as these may be covered by Fieldcrest's Educational Reimbursement Program if the employee wishing to participate is eligible. Employees wishing to participate in such courses should contact Jack T. Carter or Susan Stewart at Fieldcrest extension 53231 or 53242 as soon as possible.

For the present, these programs are available only to employees within commuting distance of Eden due to the specialized equipment needed.

Those participating in the college credit course are Herb McConnell, Cotton Classing Department; Bill Little, Technical Services; Iris Gravely, Sheet Finishing; and Clarence Catron, Fieldale.

Appreciation Award

Boy Scout executives Tom Deimler (far right) and Rick Ward (second from right) of the Piedmont Council present a plaque to George Howard, Jr., personnel manager, and W. F. Evans, Jr., plant manager of Alexander Sheeting Mill in appreciation for supporting the development of a scout camp.

25 Years Of Service

Melvin Moore, division vice president and general manager of Greenville Spinning Mills (left) congratulates Bessie Foskey, a first shift spinner at Karastan Worsted Plant (right), on her achievement of 25 years of continuous service November 12.
