Col. Donan, recently of the Danville News, departs that paper to assume his original position of editor of the Raleigh Sentinel. We welcome him back to the old North State, and to his place in the fraternity of tar heel inklingers. He is a vigorous writer, peculiar in style and is read with interest and appreciation by all classes; but get his back up and he can kick worse than a Damascus donkey.

To-morrow and next day, 8th and 9th inst. is the third quarterly meeting at the Methodist church in this city. Rev. Dr. Wilson, the Presiding Elder, will fill the pulpit each day.

TEAS.—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.—J. W. Scott & Co., have just received direct from the Importers a nice lot of Teas—guaranteed good strength and fine flavor; Not low priced, trashy goods.

The National American Medical Association met at Philadelphia on the 5th of June. North Carolina was especially ably represented, and several of her medical sons were the recipients marked and deserved honors, Tarboro in the lead. Dr. N. J. Pittman of Tarboro, was elected 1st Vice President, beating one of the most widely known doctors in this country. As he has won the distinction worthy, he will wear it well.

Dr. Eugene Grissom, of Raleigh, was made Chairman of Medical Jurisprudence, Chemistry and Psychology.

Dr. C. J. O'Hagan, of Greenville, represents the State in Medicine and Public Hygiene, and Dr. E. Burke Haywood of Raleigh, though absent, was complimented with a position on Committee for 1877 on American Medical Necrology.

The flattering Patronage awarded to Chamberlain's Jewelry emporium during the holidays has induced him to keep his stock complete, and he is constantly receiving invoices of new and elegant Jewelry, Silver and Fancy Ware, and will take great pleasure in exhibiting his beautiful designs to any who may call. Personal attention to fine Watch-work and the manufacture of Special Jewelry.

Applewhite, the last of the "Swamp Angels" (Robeson outlaws) has been dismissed by the Supreme Court on the ground that he was included in the general amnesty act. When the verdict was announced by Judge Pearson he stood up and said to the high Court:

"God be with you all," and walked forth from the halter once more a free man,—and it is hoped, to be a better one.

THE FOURTH.

This Greatest of all National holidays was duly celebrated in our city on last Tuesday, and in a manner to forcibly remind us of the good old days of our childhood. The morning was fair and beautiful and ushered in by the booming of impromptu cannon, musketry and the ringing of bells in a lively and joyous manner.

Soon the streets were lined with a merry throng all decked in their best attire, and determined to pay due respect to the "Day we celebrate." The first objective point was the depot, to see who would leave home and its claims to help swell the gathering in a sister city by joining in an excursion to Raleigh. The train gone, breakfast was next in order, after which to see and do for the day. Soon the crowd began to gather from far and near, and such a gathering has not been witnessed in this city for many a day.

At 10 A. M. the multitude assembled at Bonbow hall which was soon densely packed, leaving hundreds outside who could not get in. Here the regular exercises were fully carried out, as follows:

- Music by Greensboro Cornet Band.
- Reading of Declaration of Independence by Geo. H. Gregory.
- Music by the Band.
- Historical Address, by Rev. C. H. Wiley.
- Reading of Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, by Hon. R. P. Dick.
- Music by the Band.

Being forced by indisposition to leave the hall shortly after Mr. Wiley began his address we did not hear it, but learn it was all that could be desired of this able divine, it being not so much an oratorical effusion, as is usual on such occasions, but a succinct history of our staid old county of Guilford, from its earliest days to the present.

The readings of the Declarations of Independence by Mr. Gregory and Mr. Dick were happily preceded by appropriate remarks by those gentlemen.

Thus closed the day's proceedings quietly and pleasantly, with not the slightest jar to mar the occasion, and what is most remarkable only one case of drunkenness was reported among this vast multitude! This is undoubtedly the direct result of local Prohibition.

But few now living will live to celebrate the next Centennial of American Independence; God grant that the blighting curse of war may not spread its dark pall over our fair land 'twixt then and now!

Last Thursday afternoon, as the up Mail train was coming to Greensboro, about 3 miles from Co. Shops a team of two horses belonging to Mr. Geo. Kernodle became frightened and ran away, Mrs. Kernodle being in the wagon at the time. The horses carried the wagon into the woods and struck a tree, throwing Mrs. K. from the wagon and breaking her left arm besides bruising her considerably. She was carried to the house of Mr. Howell, living in the vicinity, and carefully attended to.

Shelby needs a schoolmarm, or the Banner man has stretched his imagination. See the following:

"The following conversation was 'overheard' between a young lady and young gent, walking the streets in the lovely moon-shine a few nights ago: Young lady: "Oh! it's quite nooney to-night!" "Yes, 'um, very quite!" said the young man."

And here is a letter that one of the employees of the Banner received a few days ago:

Mr. J. . . . Dear Sir please Send me A ploge a tobacco and I will cend you some Mony in a week a too i hav got some mony A comin to me and i wil pay you i am in a good youmer with you, and you are my sweet-heart for the year 1876.

The Raleigh Sentinel came to us last Wednesday as a morning daily, and decidedly improved. The new Managers and Editor promise to do better in the future and present a better paper than this initial number; they may, perhaps, do it, but we can't see much chance for improvement. Gentlemen we wish you success.

We learn from the Blue Ridge Blade, that the county of Burke was visited with the greatest flood last week, that its oldest citizen ever remember.—Probable loss of property $100,000. Mills, bridges, houses and all kind of property carried away by the waters.

John Phifer says in the Charlotte Observer that the first gold ever found in North Carolina was in Cabarrus county in 1799 by his grandfather, Col. Martin Phifer.

Hog Cholera and its Causes.

In January, 1867, I took charge of the plantation belonging to the heirs of Mrs. E. M. Rodwell in Warren county. I found twenty-eight year old hogs on the farm; they had been running on clover the previous summer and fall. In January '67, they were taken sick with what was called cholera, and nearly all died. I will say here that my brother, J. J. Rodwell had an interest in the hogs, and took six of them to his plantation four miles distant, and put them with his other hogs. I think the whole six were taken sick and some of them died—while not one of his others took the disease.— Since 1867 I have raised but little clover on this plantation, nor have I had a case of cholera until this summer. I sowed twelve acres in the Spring of 1875, and my hogs ran on it last fall and had access to it since early spring. About three or four weeks since they commenced getting sick. It struck me clover was the cause, I had thirty-five six months and year olds, including sows. As soon as the cholera made its appearance, I took six of the best hogs and turned them in the woods—neither one of the six has been sick—while every one of the others that remained, except three or four, have been sick and several have died. I had five sows with young pigs—two of which had only seven pigs between them. I put them on clover, both have died; and all the pigs will, as every one is sick and blind. The three sows and pigs that have been kept off the clover are in a healthy condition. At our mill we raise hogs also, but no clover, and I have never known one of them to have the cholera.

I do not wish to be understood as saying that clover will kill hogs every year but in all cases of cholera that have come under my observation, the hogs had been running on clover. I recollect that at my plantation, since the war the hogs ran on clover two years; the first year I lost none, the second year I lost nearly my entire stock. Since then I have raised no clover there nor have I heard of a case of cholera. Others may raise clover for hogs—but I never expect to. For horses sheep and cattle nothing is its equal, and I expect to raise it for these kinds of stock.—T. D. Rodwell in Warrenton Gazette.
