Experiment! Meet new people. Find out about them. Adapt yourself to them, please them, anger them, study them! That's better than any college education. You will find the unexpected everywhere as you go through life. By adventuring about you become accustomed to the unexpected. The unexpected then becomes what it really is - the inevitable. But you are ready for it - flexible, realistic, tolerant, hard-boiled, sympathetic. --Amelia Earhart in American Magazine

"Every college student today should learn whatever he can from teachers, courses and books about human relationships. They are far more important just now than the control of nature, for if we lost control of ourselves, nature will quickly go wild again.

First Impressions of Montreat

"Montreat wasn't what I expected. I thought it would be a larger place with many more people around. I expected the girls to be friendlier. I like the sports very much."

---Virginia Gibson

"I arrived late at night and was not able to find my room, so I had to stay in the Alba. The next morning we went for a walk and decided it was a beautiful place after all. I think the girls are swell. I like the sports here."

---Mary Elkins

"I thought it was very lonesome when I first came because I didn't know what to do or where to go. Most of the old girls were very friendly. I like it fine now."

---Maggie Stansbury

"I thought it was a beautiful place. I love the mountains which I had never seen. The old girls made me feel very much at home."

---Marguerite Singleton

"I thought it was perfectly beautiful. The girls were very friendly. I liked them loads. I was very much pleased with the place."

---Ellen Whitehead

"I have always lived in Asheville, but had never been to Montreat. It has the most beautiful campus anywhere. The girls are the most friendly I have ever seen."

---Leonelle Scruggs

"I liked it from the time I got here. I like the teaching here better than anywhere I've been. I like the girls."

But no college student can shift his responsibility on to books and science. He has to find out for himself how human relationships work for him." Dr. Henry Seidel Canby urges more attention on human living.--(Associated Collegiate Press)
