

ALL LOVE ACCEPTED HERE

GARRETT STANFIELD

In all honesty, we Christians are extremely blessed. We have a wonderful college to learn in, we have an extremely prosperous nation to live in, and we have a Father, Son and Holy Spirit who gives us love eternal as vast as the range between up and down. To be out right honest, God had given us more love than we truly know what to do with.

What should we do with this love? According to Matthew 22:39, we should take this love and pass it on to whoever needs it. And I know of a group of people that could use it: the people of the Black Mountain Center.

Black Mountain Center outreach ministry goes down weekly, Monday nights at 7:00 p.m. to 8:30, to see the residents. These people are people whose physical and/or mental faculties are impaired. Things that are relatively simple for us, such as walking down the hall, holding a tooth brush, or speaking to a friend, are real struggles for residents to learn.

The residents live on encouragement and love. It's one of the needed requirements for anyone to get through life. And having been on the outreach team myself, I can tell of the joys and blessings of being a Black Mountain Center Volunteer. But I'd rather let someone who's a bit more of a veteran at this tell it.

According to Lind Delgado, leader of the outreach, she encourages people to come at least once. "It may be a bit discomfoting at first, but once you come and get adjusted, the visit brings forth a sense of inspiration, uplift, and thankfulness. I also give thanks to God for opening up this oppoprtnuity for witnessing." (Linda also seeks to use her talents this way as a career.)

As I look at her account, and look back on my experience, I'm in agreement. I encourage everyone who has the time to come by Monday night 7:00 - 8:30 to the Black Mountain Center. Please see Linda Delgado in McGregor 203 or Box 79 for details.

LOOKOUT

Go up to the mountain you say to me
But I do not understand why?
To look around and see what I have created for you my child.
Let the beautiful nature treat
You kind with a feeling of Desire to let you learn more about me.
For I am, the Truth, The Way, and The Light.
I love you child, the world does not I have chosen a few of my children to guide you and help you understand that I AM LOVE with nothing to be afraid of reach out to ME and I will guide your path.
