First Annual CAREERS & the disABLED Exposition

Opening the Door of Opportunity

The award winning CAREERS & the disABLED magazine and trade show and conference organizers, CMC, are pleased to announce the first career fair and conference committed to ADA - CAREERS & the disABLED Exposition. This two day exposition will take place February 25 - 26, 1993 at the Washington Hilton and Towers in Washington, DC.

The Americans with disabilities act of 1990 (ADA) was signed into law on July 26, 1990. President Bush challenged the business community when he said, "You the businessmen, have in your hands the key to the success of this act, for you can unlock a splendid re-

Love's Pure Light, a Christmas worship experience by Randy Vader and Jay Rouse, will be presented tonight, at 7pm in Gaither Chapel. This cantata featuring such beloved classics as "Noel", "Gloria", and "Silent Night", will be a combined presentation by the Montreat Presbyterian Church and Montreat-Anderson College. Participating groups will be the church choir, College Concert Choir, Celebration, and The College Oral Interpretation Class. All Choral groups are under the direction of Dr. Bob J. Neil. Thomas Stierwalt will be the accompanist, and the narrations and readings will be directed by Brian Fuller.

This worship experience will take the place of the Montreat Presbyterian Church Prayer meeting tonight and the M-AC Chapel tomorrow morning.

source of untapped human potential." CAREERS & disABLED Expo gives companies, government agencies, hospitals and universities the opportunity to meet this challenge by promoting their commitment to the recruitment, selection, advancement, and retention of people with disabilities.

A diversified host of companies and government agencies have already reserved exhibit space including: Smithkline Beecham, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Northrop Electronics Systems Division, NASA Lewis, California Department of Transportation, Grumman Space Station Division, Argonne National Laboratory, Defense Intelligence Agency, Naval Undersea Warfare Center, Just One Break, Booz Allen & Hamilton, Defense Intelligence Agency, Food & Drug Administration, Herman Miller, Inc., IBM Corporation, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, and Washington Hospital Center.

The expo will be attended by highly qualified entry - level and professional people with disabilities from top universities, industries, government agencies, and hospitals.

CAREERS & disABLED Expo is sponsored by CAREERS & the disABLED magazine. It is the only publication that plays a major role in educating industry and government to recognize the importance of hiring people with disabilities.

The Expo is managed and produced by CMC, a leader in the trade show and conference industry for 16 years.

Cavaliers Earn Respect in the NAIA

By Matt Haney

In the pre-season, M-AC took to the road to play in the Embry-Riddle Tournament. M-AC was supposed to be the whipping boy of the tourney, but much to everyone's surprise, they defeated King College, a perennial power in the Cav's new conference.

King came to Montreat with many excuses, fully expecting to avenge and humiliate the Cavs at home. Only eight minutes and 35 seconds into the game, King was in shock. King found themselves at a 19-10 deficit, then after calling time out found themselves at the losing end of an 11-0 run. The Cavs and the fans were on fire. By the end of the half the Cavs had built a 41-24 lead.

Kevin Laws and Rodney Scott came out in overdrive in the second half scoring 10 unanswered points. Before the midway point in the 2nd half the Cavs had built a 67-39 lead and were coasting to victory. King had come to conquer, only to experience defeat in the Cav's House.

The next conference team to enter the Montreat gate was Virginia Intermont. Virginia Intermont is ranked in the top 20 of the NAIA and was supposed to blow the young Cavaliers off of the court.

The crowd might have thought this game hopeless, but luckily, nobody told the Cavs. They came out un intimidated, taking Vir. Int. to the hoops, fighting for rebounds and playing awesome D. By the half the Cavs had earned a 41-37 lead. You could see the surprise and the fear in the eyes of the Vir. Int. squad.

The Cav defense allowed Virginia Intermont to open the half with a 25-3 run. With only 10 minutes left in the game, the Cavs found themselves down by 20 points. All hope seemed lost.

A lesser team would have rolled over and died, but not the Cavs. With a little less than 8 minutes on the clock Virginia Intermont began to rotate out their starters. The Cavs battled and with 6:17 left to go, the weary starters reentered play. But the Cavs didn't break, they continued to close in on the lead, pulling within 9 points with 4:18 left. Finally the Vir. Int. squad pulled together, and won a scary one in the Cav's House 93-81.

Last Thursday, Tennessee Temple entered the Cav's House. Aaron Gabriel had his best night as a Cav, scoring in excess of 20 points. Rodney Scott put on a slam dunk exhibition. When the smoke dissipated, the opposing coach had been ejected and the Cavs had earned a 91-83 victory.
