

Ping-Pong Tournament to be Held Saturday

By Shalimar Kinsey

The Activities Committee will be hosting a ping-pong tournament on February 20, at 1 pm in the Belk Campus Center. This single elimination tournament will offer an alternative Saturday afternoon activity for those who are unable to leave campus, have nothing else planned, or simply enjoy the challenge of the game. Gift certificates and cash prizes will be given to the top three players. A sign up

Lady Cavs Looking for Strong Finish

By Kenneth Graham, Jr.

On February 13, 1993 the Lady Cavs travelled to Bluefield College in Virginia and brought home a 93 - 72 victory. The Lady Cavs were led in scoring by Amy Baker, Carri Lucksavage, Jennifer Hobbs, and Alison Swanger who together scored all but 18 of the 93 Lady Cav points. Traci Haynes summarized their efforts by saying: "We played with a lot of intensity and good teamwork." It was a tough game but the Lady Cavs played strong and all of their hard work paid off.

On February 16, 1993 at 6 pm the Lady Cavs will face Warren Wilson College for the first time this season in the "Cavs House." Although this game will be a non conference game Coach Bostic says this game should be a "good area rival." The Lady Cavs should be able to pull out a victory from this match-up.

At 6 pm, February 18, 1993

sheets will be placed on the BCC Bouletin Board for those wishing to participate.

In hopes of providing an opportunity for students to get involved, the Activities Committee is planning another pool and ping pong

Laydull to Perform at Coffeehouse

By Marsha Evans

On Friday at 8 pm the McGregor Coffeehouse will present Laydull, a band consisting of three Covenant College students, Max Conrad, Kyle Dixon, and Tyler Brown.

Max and Kyle have been playing together for a couple of years, focusing on electric, guitar, and acoustic music. Tyler recently joined the Laydulls and his gift is in playing the piano, guitar, bass, and percussion. This multi-talented group plays fre-

A New Era For M-AC Baseball Team Enters NAIA Competition

By Eric Bush

This Thursday, The M-AC Cavaliers baseball team opens their season at home against Mars Hill at 2:30 pm. This year represents a huge transition for the baseball program, with a new coach, a new conference, and fifteen freshmen of twenty-two roster spots.

The team captains, both juniors, are third baseman Lance McCall, and pitcher Mark Smith, who was all region selection last year. The team wants to rebound from last season's 13-29 record, and Coach Darin Chaplain feels that team's mental approach is paramount: "I want my players to think and act like winners." In keeping with other M-AC athletic programs, the baseball team has moved from a JUCO conference to the Tennessee Valley Athletic Conference of the NAIA. The new coach says he is optimistic about the season, but uncertain because of a tough schedule and unpredictability of youth.

tal approach is paramount: "I want my players to think and act like winners." In keeping with other M-AC athletic programs, the baseball team has moved from a JUCO conference to the Tennessee Valley Athletic Conference of the NAIA. The new coach says he is optimistic about the season, but uncertain because of a tough schedule and unpredictability of youth.

Chaplain described the conference as balanced and competitive, and characterized the upcoming season as one of chalthe Lady Cavs will travel to Clinch Valley, which should prove to be a competitive contest. The Lady Cavs played number 14 ranked Clinch Valley on January 12, 1993 and beat them 55-54. Coach Bostic said the first was a "good balance of scoring." Daphanie Bousum scored 15 points, Shon Snipes ten points, and Carri Lucksavage eight points and ten rebounds. This will be a tough game for the Cavs but Coach Bostic is confident the team can pull a win at Clinch Valley.

On February 23, 1993 the Lady Cavs will end the season by traveling to Toccoa Falls. This game will also be a non conference game that should prove to be an easy win. The last time the Lady Cavs challenged the Toccoa Falls team they beat them in the "Cavs house" by 48 points.

Coming into this semester, the Cavs seemed to be in line to take either fourth or possible third in the TVAC. But now after dropping six in a row and eight of their last nine, the Cavs are struggling to maintain the seventh position and make the conference tournament.

Cavs Struggle

By Matt Haney

This week was marked by a loss to King by a score of 83 - 69, after being down by only 4 at the half; a loss to Tennessee Wesleyan, an NAIA Div. I team, 97 - 89; and a loss to the Bluefield Rams 117 - 90, who we beat 85 - 80 earlier this season.

Thursday night at 8 pm the Cavs will play Clinch Valley away, in a must win scenario. McNamara on winning: "I haven't quit, I hope the guys haven't, if we work hard and don't quit, we'll have a chance to win."

SGA Seeking Student Support

By Student Government Association

In the course of the 1992 - 1993 school year, the SGA, working in conjunction with President Hurt and the Student Affairs Office, has sought to have the voices of students heard and to encourage mature treatment of the students as well. Many of these changes are a reflection of the closer relationship among the students and administration. More efforts are in this process; however, there needs to be a campus-wide transformation at the same time. In order to be treated like adults we must earn that respect. This includes being responsible in our words and actions. From working to keep the grounds of our campus and community clean to offering respect and reverence during convocation or chapel. These are the areas that give SGA leverage in such tasks as the revision of the handbook. Remember, the more responsible we are as students, the more we will be treated as adults. We encourage each of you to attend the SGA legislative meetings, held every other Monday night, at 6 pm in the Morgan Science Building.
