CRAFTY IDEAS

"Swatch" new in craft materials? A special felt, that's what. With a scissors, a needle and thread or glue and this new fabric, "yule" turn out happy Santas and snazzy snowflakes, flowers and wreaths, and whatever else tickles your holiday fancy. This unique material is 100 percent polyester. It drapes as beautifully as velvet, is machine washable and yet is considerably less expensive than traditional felts.

S. H. Kunin Felt Co., Inc., of Worcester, Mass., the sole distributor of Poly-felt, made with Dacron polyester from Du Pont, is featuring a do-it-yourself stocking kit this year that includes assorted pieces of felt in traditional Christmas colors—red, white and green. But you can buy this remarkable material in at least 20 different shades. What's more, you don't have to confine your craftiness to Christmas. With a

WATER FACTS AND FANCIES

Over the years, the holes in a shower head become smaller, encrusted with scale—particles in the water. In industrial boilers and cooling equipment, scale becomes a strong insulation. Its formation seriously reduces heat exchange efficiency, making energy and maintenance costs rise.

A new method of treating water electromagnetically—without chemicals, without pollution—removes every type of scale and controls hard water corrosion. As more industries use this relatively new process it can save the United States millions of gallons of fuel.
