THE CADUCEUS.

MEDICAL SUPPLY

The showers of last Thursday were welcome to the farmers of the vicinity. Its good for cotton and such, but not for nice, newly filled ticks and cleanly aired blankets.

Gosh, after we went to all that trouble to get a water cooler, ice is put under ban. Its a cruel world.

Base Hospital "Y" and the M. S. D. motorcycle had a little spat last Thursday. Iodine played an important role at the finish. Shrimpo was a muchly interested party.

McRae claims that this military courtesy business has gone too far. Sunday afternoon we were the recipients of an impromptu visit by Capt. Darling and Capt. Weinberg.

When the officers entered, "Attention" was called.

Poor old Mac came across, but lo, he was a la September Morn, standing at attention with nothing but a pair of B. V. Ds.

We were all in the same stew. How could a fellow stand at attention facing Mac and not crack a smile.

While we regret to have lost that ball game to Base Hospital No. 54, we want to say that defeat at their hands was not as bitter a pill as others have been. Their clean style of playing and good sportsmanship stand out prominently in every ball game we have seen them play.

Of course, we would like to get a chance for revenge, if No. 54 is here long enough, but though we are denied that privilege, set us down as saying, that there never was or will be a nicer bunch of fellows than said No. 54. The M. S. D. wishes them all the luck in the world when they get over.

Captains Darling and Stockard are having their stable made flyproof. The wonder workers are Privates Stockard and Wilson.

QUALIFIED FOR COMMISSION.

"What military experience have you had?" asked the registrar in a little town in the south, of a flashily dressed negro who had presented himself for registration.

"Ise done been shot at twice, sah."
—Exchange.

RESTRICTION LIFTED.

The restriction order, which has prohibited the soldiers from visiting Charlotte, was raised on Thursday afternoon, the cars for the city were soon crowded with the soldiers, who had been held in camp for nearly three weeks.

FOR SALE.

Sixty-acre farm, part of the best land of Mecklenburg county, located near CCharlotte and holding modern buildings, an excellent agricultural opportunity. Apply Eugene Menga, Barracks Six, Base Hospital, Camp Greene.

QUARTERMASTER

RUNNING WAR MAP.

The "up-to-the-minute" force of the quartermaster corps do not propose to fall behind observations of the big drive along the Marne. In order to follow the advance of their comrades the men have installed a big war map in the office.

Sergeant O'Mallery is in charge of the man. With a force of thumb tacks he marks the advance of American arms and where the Teuton line is crumbling. He is able to give any information on the battle results of the past week and his work will be a valuable source of reference until the Sammies parade along the streets of Berlin.

PLENTY TO DO

Lieut. C. F. Harvey, Jr., who has succeeded Lieutenant Wagner as head of the base hospital quartermaster corps and who is also the officer in charge of the hospital fire department, is a busy man in his double capacity. He is arranging a new set of fire drill rules and expects to call a meeting of the entire personnel of the hospital in an effort to better organize a revised system of answering fire calls.

THEY ARE THERE.

In case of necessity the Q. M.'s will be found every evening between the hours of 7 and 9 in the "Baldheaded Row" at the Camp Theater.

Great interest is being manifested by Sgt. Elrod in the equipping the men of 54 for over sea service.

Sgt. I. C. Rosenberg has returned from a ten-day furlough spent in New York. Judging from the way he looks Broadway must have been painted red.

Pvt. Johnson is wearing the smile he had in the past. There's a reason! Pvt. Mohr is leaving for home on a furlough, and "Jack" is looking forward to ten nights of good sleep.

Sgt. Margerum has returned from a ten-day furlough spent in Philadelphia. He informs us that it was one grand and glorious furlough.

Life's mysteries yet to be solved. Where roes Sgts. Barth and Reel go every night?

Sgt. Miller is enjoying a ten-day furlough at his home in Kissimmee, Fla., and also some one else's home.

By CORP. E. J. O'MALLEY.

IN SURGICAL SERVICE.

Lieutenant George H. Upton, who was transferred to the U. S. Army Base Hospital, Camp Greene, from Base Hospital No. 54 is acting as surgeon for Ward C-4, one of the surgical wards. Lieutenant Upton is especially fitted for this work as he was connected with Tulane University as senior assistant in the laboratory of operative surgery before entering army service.
