FOURTH RECRUITS

LIGHTS FROM THE LIMITED.

A letter received by one of the boys from the folks at home says that now that he has been promoted to kitchen police they hope he will not be too hard on the other fellows and to remember that he was once a private himself. Better follow the advice, George.

Discussing colors and standards: Lieut. to recruit at fourth recruit camp, "What are colors?" Rec: "Uh—uh—er—uh—troops."

Corporal Denman of the recruit camp of the limited service men is mighty busy now-a-days between his drilling and his efforts toward organizing a band but the men are responding loyally and it is hoped that within a very short time rehearsals will be under way and a musical organization turned out that will give the men from the Base Hospital a decided "run for their money."

Prospects are good of some of the men here securing a real, sure-enough-honest-to-goodness bath before very long. Here's hoping. Of course, we don't need it or anything like that.

We hear that Miller (Curby) of the 9th company gets twisted in his count when the command comes "Count Off"—better watch yourself, old timer, or you may be "counting" yourself in for a little extra duty some day.

The cooks are getting wise to a certain person who comes for seconds, thirds, etc., and at his fifth cup of coffee one morning they asked him if he didn't like coffee pretty well, and the poor fish says: "Sure, that's why I'm willing to drink so much water in order to get a little." Sort of razz, eh?

STARTING AGAIN

Another American Drive.

START WITH A SMILE.

Private Eugene Menga was dispensing his usual line of comment on camp life in general Thursday morning as he cleared a grizzled visage of its camouflage.

"Where do you get that stuff?" Gene was asked.

"Start the day with a smile and love" was the comment
