LAWFUL GLEANINGS

(GATHERED OR MADE UP BY
 I. H. LAW.)

Go back to the simple life. Be contented with simple food, simple pleasures, simple clothes, work hard, play hard, pray hard. We have a victory to win and that will do it.

You've got to admit that old Hindenburg every once in a while says something. "The Austrian peace offer," he remarks. "Will not interrupt the war." And what could be truer than that?

"Improvement in tone and increase in volume is noted." One would think they were commenting on our new band effort, but really it refers only to yesterday's stock market.

Here's good news. You can get your stately limousine or your puff-puff run-about and ride all you like Sunday providing you can make the coppers believe you are on your way to a Liberty Loan meeting.

In furtherance of the conservation idea we are to have a new style of eye-glasses. They will still, however, be worn on the nose.

One year from the date of the big German drive another German drive is likely to start. It will be towards Berlin, and not around the world by the way of Paris.

Since it has been determined that men holding jobs at Hog Island must work, the politicians and professional ball players begin to wonder why the plant was established in the first place.

The abandonment of the use of the bugal in battle will not interfere with some people blowing their own horn after this warring is over. And verily, we will have a plenty to blow about.

If the leather men now in court for profiteering are convicted, we should award them a leather medal, and we suggest it be made from an army mule's britching.

If you have a yellow streak now is the time to paint it red, white, and blue.

If Germany had wanted war we should not have chosen this moment. No moment could have been more unfavorable for Germany.—The Crown Prince.

Hun hindsight seems to be improving.

With Foch at the switchboard it won't do any good for the Kaiser to tell Hindenburg to hold the line.

If it were not for the Red Cross markers on hospitals the Huns might have trouble knowing what buildings to bomb.

Von Hertling admits that the Hun dynasty is at stake and Marshal Foch is lighting the fires.
