MANY BOOKS

HOSPITAL LIBRARY SUPPLIED

The American Library association has just issued a very simple and effective poster. On a pale gray ground, with well chosen letters of green and red, is the following legend. "Back to the Job: What Job? There are books on all jobs at the Hospital Library. Pick yours and GET BUSY, AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION."

The books have begun to arrive and may be found to be on the following topics: Accounting, advertising, automobile work, banking, building, business, drafting, engineering, farming, journalism, machine shop work, plumbing, railroading, seamanship, shipbuilding, surveying, tailoring, teaching, telegraphy, telephone and

Here are a few authors and titles in one class: Averam—Patenting and promoting inventions. Newell & Drayey—Engineering as a career. Croft—Electrical machinery, wiring for light and power. Marks—Gas engines and producer. Page—Storage batteries simplified. Wood—Locomotive operation and tram control. Talbot—Submarines, their mechanism and operation. Frost—Art of roadmaking. Sellers—Railway maintenance engineering. Bramwell—Aeroplane design. Brooks—Automobile handbook. Collins—How to fly. Gayard—Automobile tire handbook. Curtiss—Curtiss aviation book. Dyke's automobile and gas engine encyclopedia. Fales—Learning to fly in the U. S. Army. Hayward—Automobile ignition, starting and lighting. Heldt—Gasoline au-
