

LEARNING THE WAYS OF THE HEALING TOUCH

STUDENT NURSES OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY BASE HOSPITAL, CAMP GREENE. —Photo By Toohey.

The call of duty brought these young women from college halls and from quiet homes to learn the art of mercy at the Student Nurse Training School of the U. S. Army Base Hospital, Camp Greene. All sections of the country from the Gulf States to the Green Mountains of Vermont have furnished the bright faces which set off the group pictured above. These student nurses, who have been at the hospital for several weeks have made marked advancement in their study of practical nursing. Their names are as follows:

Second row: Tressie Seybold, Flora Thomas, Sara Hall, Ruth Lytle, Anna Hess, Mary Scaife, Evelyn Merrill.

Third row: Amy Hoover, Mary Kester, Georgia Scott, Isabel Hayes, Loretta Vanderslice, Catherine Mason, Martha Pittenger, Frances Henderson, Ada Ebert, Eva Gusinski, Pauline Doherty, Kathleen Guilfoyle.

In front: Miss Susan G. Parish, chief nurse, and Miss Elizabeth Uzelmeier, instructor.
