Quite So
 Miss Shipman—What can you tell me about nitrates?
 Sleepy Freshman—Well-er-they're a lot cheaper than day rates.

Mr. Owens—You should think of the future.
 Certain Senior—I can't, it's my girl's birthday, and I've got to think about the present.

Safe
 Freshman—Something is preying on my mind.
 Senior—Don't worry, it will die of starvation.

Teacher (on Arithmetic class) Class, what is a mill?
 Small Boy—I know, teacher, my pa owns one. It's a place where you grind corn.

Freshman—Do you know anything stranger than a man with a woden leg?
 Senior—Sure, a man with a wooden chest.

Minnie H. (translating Latin) You say this comes from uh-vinia? "Mississippi." No! it comes from a hot dog.

Another
 Babe (giving Latin case ending): Uma, i, e, o, ia.
 Miss Wofford—Babe seems to be making a new declension but I don't believe we need it just before exams.

"Better Authority
 Student—A fortune teller told me. Why?
 Teacher—I'd rather hear a bank-teller tell me that.

Aaron (on algebra class)—Miss Alcorn, I can spell my name in Algebra—A square ron.

Ella B. II. (bumping into fireman) I better mind how I bump into these policemen.
 "Mississippi" "Idget" that's a fireman.
 Ella B.: "How thrilling" Let's go backward and do it over.

"Rob" Baine—(Reading aloud from board during journalism exam) "Hmm. Write an original joke. Mr. Owens, if we don't know one, can we just make up one?"
