SOPHOMORE WINS IN DECLAMER'S BOUT

EMMETT McLARTY WINNER

Emmett McLarty, of the sophomore class, speaking on "A Nation's Temptations," won first place in the declamation contest sponsored by the Oratio Club.

The speakers were Ted Thompson of the senior class, who spoke on "The Home and the Government," Gladys Ellington and Henry Gurley representing the junior class. Miss Ellington had as a subject "Darius Green and His Flying Machine."

Mr. Gurley: "Problems Fronting Protestantism." Representing the sophomore class Robert Overman speaking on "Pyramids Not All Egyptian," and Emmett McLarty speaking on "A Nation's Temptations." Of the freshmen were Edith Millikan and Emma Fritz. Miss Millikan spoke on "An Ideal Home" and Miss Fritz, "Briar Rose."

The judges were Rev. T. J. Sykes, Rev. C. P. Coble and Mrs. Andrews. This was the first declamation contest held under the auspices of the Oratio Club, but this club hopes to make this affair an annual event.

HONOR ROLL

Report from the office of the principal shows that the freshman class lead in the number of students on the Honor Roll. There are forty-six freshmen on the Honor Roll, thirty-four in the sophomore class, twenty-six in the junior class and twenty-four in the senior class. That is a total of one hundred and thirty pupils, out of a student body of about seven hundred.

The honor roll this month is unusually low. No doubt "spring fever" has taken hold of the student body. Students should do their best now to gain the honor roll next month, for there is only a few more weeks of actual schooling before the summer vacation begins.

Freshman class Honor Roll, Eighth Month:

POINTER AWARDS PINS

The Pointer awards were presented to the debaters, who participated in the Triangular or inter-class debates, by H. G. Owens, head of the English department in the local high school, in chapel, Friday morning.

These pins, donated by the Pointer, have the following words at the top "Pointer Award." At the bottom "Debating," in the center, "H. P. H. S."

On the back is engraved the owner's initials, debate or debates participated in and the date.

These are much coveted prizes because they require no mean ability and time to win one.

Those receiving prizes are: Misses Claire Douglas, Semmie Herman, Minnie Herman and Edith Millikan; Messrs. Joe A. Smoak, Garland McPherson, Robert Overman and John Clinard.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

A report from the office shows that commencement exercises will begin Sunday, May 31, at 8 o'clock in the American Theatre, with the baccalaureate sermon by Dr. W. L. Lingle, will end Friday, June 5, with the graduation exercises and speech by N. L. Englehardt, of Columbia University.

On June 3, the most interesting program comes off. Thursday night at 8 o'clock the contestants for the Cox oratorical and Wren essay medals will give their speeches. The boys entering the oration contest are Samuel Hyman, Joe A. Smoak, Charles Salsbury and Lawrence White.

The girls entering the essay contest are Claire Douglas, Semmie Herman, Rada Poston and Gladys Hofman.

June 4 is class night at that date the class historian, Glennie Anderson, will give the history of the graduating class.

Ted Thompson is class poet and the last will and testament will be read by Saunders Dallas.

The statistics will be given by Charles McManus. Margaret Hauser will make the prophecy for the senior class and the donor is Ward Packer.

Friday, June 5, is graduation night. The speaker for the night is N. L. Englehardt, of Columbia university. At this time diplomas will be presented to the graduating students.

SENIORS GET ENTRANCE BLANKS

There has been a total of 31 seniors to send in entrance blanks to the various colleges of the state. The time left for the filling out of these

MUSIC FESTIVAL HELD

A music festival was held in the American Theatre, May 21, under the direction of Lewis L. Stookey. Mr. Stookey introduced this festival in High Point. It is a new idea here, but it is hoped that it will be an annual affair. The small charge of 15 cents was asked for admission.

The program began with two selections sung by the teacher's chorus. They were: "Goblet of Youth," and "Venetian Boat Song."

The solo part of, "Sailor's Slumber Song," was sung by Charles Salsbury, while the boys' glee club sang the chorus. In the song, "One, Two, Three, Four," the solo part was sung by Sanders Dallas, while the boys' glee club joined in on the chorus.

The boys' glee club as a whole sang, "Song of the Western Men."

Misses Dorothy Hoskins, Helen Reich, Elizabeth Welch, and Margaret Gurley sang "Sing Me to Sleep," and "The Alphabet." The girls' glee club sang "Beautiful Moonlight," "Lullaby," and "Dreaming." While a select group of girls sang, "In the Time of Roses."

The combined boys and girls' glee clubs sang "The Dancers," and "Morning Invitation." After this number a mixed chorus sang, "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind."

The last number was the high school song, sung by both glee clubs while the audience was standing.

Between the numbers the audience sang, "Memory Lane," "Follow the Swallow," "When You and I Were Young Maggie," "Juanita," and others. Everybody went away well pleased with the entertainment.

SALSBUARY PASSES EXAMS

Charles Salsbury, who sometime ago stood the entrance examinations for the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, has recently learned that he has passed the examination.

Salsbury spent three months preparing himself for the mental examinations, which are indeed rigid. He is now eligible for admission to the Academy providing he passes the physical examination.

entrance blanks is short. Mr. Johnston asks that the seniors hurry up.

The 31 students who have signed up will be scattered throughout nine institutions. High Point College will get 11, Elon two, University of North Carolina seven, N. C. C. W. five, Hollins two, Duke one, State one, Randolph-Macon one, and Wake Forest one.
