There once was a boy named Moses
Who went out to pick some red roses;
He slipped on his toes and fell on his nose.

And red as a rose his nose is.

PRESS ROOM PARAGRAPHS

By TED THOMPSON

I heard a fellow say the other day that if he ever went to work in a mine he would take two or three hot dogs along to dig him out in case the mine caved in. * * *

A few days ago a baseball team playing High Point rolled up 11 runs in one inning.

"And did they score 11 runs?" someone asked.

"I guess they did," answered another. "I don't think they were Roman numerals." * * *

"I must go in and take my exercise now."

"You take exercise? What kind?"

"I play the phonograph."

"But that's not exercise!"

"Oh, yes it is. The spring is broken and I have to turn it with my finger."

Ketchie: Ted, did Lena have lipsticks on her lips at the reception?

Ted: Naw, not much.

Ketchie: Huh! How do you know?

The following conversation took place on the way to the reception:

She: I'm cold.

He: Which way do you want me to take it?
