

EXCHANGE

The Pointer has received a large number of papers for exchange this year—some of the best that are published by high schools and some of the best college papers. We wish to thank every school and college that we have had on our list for the copies of papers which have been sent us. We hope that The Pointer has been received in every school and college which we sent it in the manner that we have received the exchanges. The spirit which schools evidence in the exchange we have seen this year is unsurpassed.

We are glad to say that much has been accomplished this year through the exchanges, although we have not accomplished as much as we would have liked to accomplish. We hope that our efforts to help other schools by sending out The Pointer have not been in vain. Other papers have helped us. They have given us ideas.

Some of the papers are unusually good, such as the Hi Life, Greensboro high school. That paper shows a wide variety of school activities, and expresses the ideas of the entire student body. It is not only this but also a clean paper and shows that the students cooperate to make it worthy of school place accorded by the Columbia Press Award committee.

The Tri-Hi, Leakesville high school is an excellent paper. The school spirit shown through this paper is excellent. The Funny Bone column is good.

The Hillbilly, Asheville high school. Your magazine is very neat and well arranged. Your stories and various pages are excellent. Much work has been put in your paper.

The Echo, Salisbury high school is an up-to-date magazine.

The Parrot, China Grove Farm Life school. First we want to commend you on the name of your paper. You have a fine school spirit and a good paper.

The Mt. Airy High Spots, Mt. Airy high school. You have much school spirit and we like the Open Forum. We want to congratulate the following papers: Thri-Hi Digest, Leakesville high school; The Acropolis, Barringer high school, Newark, N. J.; The Cup-O-Coffee, Coffee County high school, Enterprise, Ala.; The Beacon, New Port News high school, New Port News, Va.; Fine Yarns, Gastonia high school, and many others that are very good that we do not have space to mention. We are very proud of our exchanges and hope to have them again next year.

The spirit that prevailed through the school papers is very commendable, and we hope that this spirit will ever prevail through the high schools.

The following papers not mentioned before have also been received: Alumni News, The Vanguard, Hoke Smith Junior high school, Atlanta, Ga., The Periscope, Coker College, Hartsville, S. C.; The Carolinian, N. C. C. W., Greensboro, N. C.; Waite high school paper, Toledo, Ohio; The
