HALLOWE'EN

Listen! Presently you'll hear the yowls of myriads of black cats with high arched backs. Look for countless witches soaring high on broomsticks pictured against a golden-yellow harvest moon. Be not afraid of grinning Jack-o-lanterns that peer and leer, or of ghosts that float noiselessly from haunted houses nearer the abodes of men. Let not strange happenings trouble you, for Hallowe'en is here!

GIRLS ARE INTERESTED IN HOME ECONOMICS

In order to determine just what features of the course, the girls taking home economics are most interested in, the teachers of that department, Mrs. Owen Reese and Miss Penelope Morgan, submitted a questionnaire to them.

This questionnaire was necessarily divided into two parts, one cooking and the other sewing. The first division found most girls filling out the questionnaire interested in the planning and preparation of meals, dishes for special occasions, decorations, and features of entertaining. They were also anxious to learn how to prepare invalid trays and lunches.

In the matter of sewing, a great many found the making of underclothes and dresses for themselves attractive work. A number were also interested in sewing for all members of the family, and in caring for clothes by mending, pressing, and cleaning.

As a whole, the pupils were interested in caring for all the details of a home, both in sewing and in cooking, and in making that home as attractive as possible. They wanted to be able to entertain people of varying ages, and to be a gracious hostess.

Financial matters also were apparently of concern to many. These thought check and saving accounts, prompt payment of bills, and economic systems would help to solve many household problems. All were anxious to be able to buy and prepare food at the least possible expense.

On account of the excellent labo-

PRESIDENT CHASE OF UNIVERSITY A VISITOR HERE LAST THURSDAY

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of North Carolina and a leading southern educator, visited the High Point high school on Thursday afternoon. He was shown over the entire building and grounds. Dr. Chase expressed admiration for the comparatively new building and equipment, and said he thought that it ranks with the best of its kind in the state.

Of the different phases of the school, Dr. Chase was apparently impressed most of all with the library, which he mentioned several times, saying it would be exceedingly easy to read in such an attractive room. The cataloguing and the arrangement of the books appeared well to him. He also commented on the excellently equipped and furnished laboratories. When asked when the university would have a gymnasium to compare with that of the high school, he smiled and replied that he hoped soon, as an application for funds to erect one has already been made to the legislature.

In speaking of education in general, Dr. Chase made the statement that more and more girls and boys are going to college every year; and that a graduate from a school such as this one is normally able to take a strong college course as every preparatory equipment is offered him here. He was agreeably sur-

JACK WHITE ELECTED FRESHMAN PRESIDENT

The freshman class voted the second time, Thursday morning, for its class officers. Jack White was elected president; Frances Sloan, vice president; Jackleyn McMillan, secretary-treasurer; and Lorraine Cox and Douglas Whitley cheerleaders.

A meeting was held October 24, for the presentation of the candidates to the class. After a short devotional period, Mr. Johnston spoke a few words on what it takes to make success. He stated that some of the freshmen have already shown that they will finish the course in four years, while there are others who need to "push harder." Miss Essie Dale Hunter, class adviser, explained the purpose of the meeting and introduced the candidates to the class. Each candidate expressed his or her intention if elected. The candidates for president were Helen Jones, Jack White, and Raymond Welborn; for vice president, Frances Sloan, Mary Bulla, and Billy Fraley; for secretary-treasurer, Sue Everhart, Lois Swain, and Jackleyn McMillan; and for cheerleaders, Douglas Whitley, Earl Whitley, William Vance, Helen P. Stewart, Doris Pope, and Lorraine Cox. Voting was done at the close of the seventh period. None, however, except Douglas Whitley, received a majority the first time.

ROBERT HUBBARD HOLDS HIGH PLACE AS ARCHER

Robert Hubbard, a senior in this high school, holds a record in a sport, which, though not an entirely new one in the city, is at least an unusual one. The honor he has gained in this field is distinctive as he has won one state championship and a fourth place in a national championship. Robert entered his first tournament at Sedgefield in May, 1926, and won first place. This was the state Scout tournament. In October of the next year he again entered this tournament, which was held at Sedgefield for the second time, and came out second only to the first of Stephen Douglas, Greensboro Boy Scout. He also was sent to Boston, Mass., by the Rotary Club of High Point, September, 1927, for the National Tournament. Here he gained national attention by winning fourth place among the Boys Scouts of America.

Last January, this senior, then a junior, went to Pinehurst for the Southern tournament, and won second place.

For the third time last June he was a contestant for the state title among the scouts at Sedgefield, and did well, although he did not place.

As a result of these various championships he has won, Robert has several trophies. He was awarded a cup and a medal at Pinehurst, and one gold medal at each of the Sedgefield contests. This student has been interested in this sport for three years, and he practices during the entire year. He was instructor in archery at Camp Uhwarrie, the Boy Scout Camp, for two seasons, 1927 and 1928. Although still very interested in archery Robert says he does not have much time for practice these days, and therefore, is not sure about entering any tournaments this season or next.

A POINTER REPORTER TALKS TO '98 ALUMNUS

"Students have better opportunities now than they had when I went to High Point High School," said Mr. Alvin Parker, graduate of the class of 1898. "You have a wonderful plant, and the equipment of your school equals the equipment of any college in North Carolina."

Mr. Parker said that when he graduated from high school, there were only four in his class, three girls and one boy, and that the class was not organized. "I liked to play jokes," said Mr. Parker. "But I didn't have a chance. There was one professor who was with the seniors all the time, and when this professor was absent, I had to take charge of the class."

Mr. Parker was a student at Guilford for two and a half years, leaving in the spring of nineteen hundred. While at Guilford he was president of the Henry Clay Literary society. He was very much interested in athletics, being on the baseball team and manager of the football team. Mr. Parker told this little story of college life:

"There was a certain young man at Guilford who enjoyed talking to the girls. One night this boy decided that he would like to sit on the window sill of the girl's room and eat pie and talk to them. So the girls' let down a rope and proceeded to pull the young man up. When they had pulled him half way, the dean appeared, as deans will do. The next thing the young man knew, he was sitting rather shakily on the ground."

Mr. Parker is at present vice president and treasurer of Snow Lumber Co.

INTERESTING POLITICAL PROGRAM PRESENTED IN CHAPEL LAST FRIDAY

Qualities of Presidential Candidates Discussed; Issues of Present Campaign Featured; Electoral Votes of States Forecast.

A political program, based on the coming election and dealing with the two candidates and the probabilities of who would be elected, was given to the assembly Friday morning. Speeches on both presidential candidates were made. Anna Gertrude Douglas spoke on Herbert Hoover, the Republican candidate, giving a sketch of his life from his boyhood on a farm to when he gained the office of secretary of commerce. Outstanding achievements in his life were mentioned, such as his war record and relief work during the Mississippi flood.

Frances Douglas, on Alfred E. Smith, followed. She outlined his political life, named the different offices he has held, and enlarged on his magnetic personality, speaking of his boyish, hail-fellow-well-met smile.

The chief issues of the election were presented by students. Adelaide Crowell represented religion; Mildred Boswell, government control of public utilities; Grace Walsler immigration; Wilbur Hutchens, farm relief. Robert Davis was John Barleycorn. His acting was very realistic.

An idea as to how the states stood as to each candidate was also given. The Republican states, represented by students each displaying the number of electoral votes of the state he was supposed to be, gathered behind a placard bearing a picture of an elephant. The Democratic states lined up behind another poster picturing a donkey. The doubtful states grouped themselves behind a third placard, which had on it a picture half a donkey and half an elephant.

The program was sponsored by Miss Lindsay. Eloise Best was the announcer.

JANE HESS WEAVER IS SOPHOMORE PRESIDENT

Members of the sophomore class voted for their officials Tuesday, October 23rd. The first yearly meeting was held in the auditorium October 17, but, due to a lack of the majority vote, a second vote was required. Jane Hess Weaver was chosen as president for the coming year, with Gatewood Shipman as vice president, and Frank Steed secretary and treasurer. The two cheerleaders will be Harold Long and Ted Thomas. These officers will preside at the next class meeting, which will be held sometime in November.

MISS ANNA B. BENSON NOW AT LENOIR H. S.

We notice from the Mountaineer, Lenoir, N. C., that Miss Anna Bernard Benson is head of the English department and faculty adviser of the school paper. She will be remembered by the seniors, some of whom she taught when she was in High Point in 1926.

Trust men, and they will be true to you; treat them greatly, and they will, show themselves great.—EMERSON.
