PAST YEAR EVENTFUL ONE FOR THIS SCHOOL

Something Outstanding Occurred Every School Month

Student Council Initiated — Students Accomplish Much in Athletics and Dramatics

The year 1928 could be called almost anything except an uneventful one for High Point high school. Almost from the first day the H. P. H. S. students made old Father Time work overtime recording the unusual and outstanding happenings, in his efforts to keep up. To summarize briefly a few select events of 1928:

In February, Edmund Vance Cook, a noted poet, visited the school and entertained the students by reading a number of his poems. During this month, also, the boys' basketball team played that memorable game with Candor, which they lost by one point. And incidentally they lost with this game their place in the championship race.

The March winds blew up a lot of eventful dust. The student council was initiated into the high school, with John Easter as president. The senior class of 1927-28 selected as its gift to the school, the painting, "The Doge's Palace" which now hangs in the library. The annual operetta, "Miss Cherry Blossom," was successfully presented by the music department. Representatives from the Oratio club spoke on the enactment of the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill in the triangular debate. The negative team, Margaret Andrews and Grace Bulla, won from Winston.

In April news was received that Ruth Clinard, a member of the

HI-Y CLUB MEMBERS GATHER IN REUNION

Many College Men Are Present and Speak—Old Members Win
In Basketball Game

On Friday evening, December 28, the annual Hi-Y reunion was held at the Y. M. C. A. Invitations had been sent to all persons who have been Hi-Y members in High Point since 1923. Each year's club since that year was represented either by its president or some other member.

Holt McPherson, a former Hi-Y man, presided over the meeting. David Parsons welcomed the "old-timers" in behalf of the present club and told something of the studies which are now being carried on in its meetings. Bill Ragan, president in 1923, responded and told of old times in the Hi-Y club. Among others who spoke were Bob Meyers on "Breaking Into College Athletics," Garland McPherson on "The Friendship Club" at Caro-

A total of 186 tickets for the basketball season had been sold to high school students at the closing of the official sale on Friday afternoon. The largest number bought by a single room was twenty-four, purchased by Mr. Marshall's senior home room. The next highest, 13, goes to the credit of another senior home room, that of Mr. Patrick's.

The sale of the season tickets was started on Wednesday morning and continued to the end of the week. The price of the ticket is one dollar, which allows the purchaser to see 14 games, five of which are double-headers.

ROOM "GOES TO EUROPE" IN PROGRAM WED'SDAY

Students of Mr. Marshall's Class
Tell About Interesting Places
To Be Seen By Travellers

During the home room program one Wednesday, room 201 "went to Europe." Virginia Hunt, as lieutenant, organized the party, having members of the home room, with Miss Albright, as chaperone.

The party left High Point about "six o'clock" and arrived at New York about nine the next morning. Mr. Marshall told of the visit in New York, including the visit to the Woolworth Building, after which the passports were secured. He conveyed the party safely to the ship, Leviathan, on which they sailed at noon. Pauline Haynes related the incidents happening on board until the ship anchored in Liverpool, England. By railroad the party went to London. Gladys Culler told of the interesting buildings and parks that the party visited. From England, the visitors went to Scotland. Of the interesting sights there, Percy Idol related

HONESTY

Honesty in all one's dealings is not only the best policy, but the only good policy. He who by dishonest means receives the benefit of anything for which he does not pay and is not able to pay full value in fair exchange is morally as one who draws a check on a bank without having in the bank funds with which to pay the check.

Dishonesty is an evidence of bankruptcy. It is a resort to forgery and theft to avoid confusion. It adds crime to misfortune.

It is a short-sighted policy. It may flourish for a day, but it merely piles up debts against the day of final reckoning, and sooner or later one must pay for what one gets.

Honesty is a habit. It is acquired by practice. It pays dividends which are more to be desired than silver or gold.

COMMITTEE OF 3 TO JUDGE

Enterprise Will Publish Best:
The Pointer, the Second in Rank.

The Honor society is sponsoring the honesty campaign which is being carried on in the high school this week. The English teachers are having their classes write themes on different phases of honesty in school. Each teacher will select the three best themes handed in and turn them over to Miss Carrie Smith, a member of the English department. Miss Smith will in turn submit these themes to a committee of three persons in High Point, who will select the three best. The best one will be printed in the High Point Enterprise, and the next two best will be printed in THE POINTER.

Dramatics in High School and College.

The college and high school record of Robert K. Marshall, a member of the English department of High Point high school, shows that he had a prominent part in school activities and held many offices. He attended this school and then both Guilford and Haverford colleges.

During his junior year here, Mr. Marshall made the highest scholastic average in the school, and a medal was presented to him for this achievement. He was managing editor of THE POINTER for one year. He was graduated in 1919. Mr. Marshall's class was the first one to have a festival. The festival or carnival was an annual event from that time, until the high school was moved to the new building.

In 1920, Mr. Marshall entered the freshman class at Guilford.
