

Joke Editor: Why should basket ball be called the king of all sports? Because it's played on courts.

When are Guilford Hawks not Hawks?
When the High Pointers make doves out of them.

Head lines seen in local paper:
Jolly Funeral Held.
Forward Passes in City. (We think this should be on the sport page.)

Wanted: Room and board by a young man with a private family. (Ad in Enterprise.)

The talk of the Older-Boys' Conference was a prominent Morganton man. So says our last week's THE POINTER.

Harry Coble: Are you a woman hater?

Sam Clapp: If she's a teacher, I am.

Governor of Arkansas (examining Del Hick's handbag): Is this where you carry your knowledge?
Del: No, my make up!

THOUGHTS ON BASKETBALL

I had a card from Wade Marlette the other day saying that the basket ball season he had ordered from some mail order house up North had come, and that he'd be awful glad if I'd step around some time and look it over. Being as this is Thrift week, I was kinder sorry for Mr. Marlette to waste so much postage, since I had already seen in THE POINTER that Mr. Marlette's order had been received, and invitin' every body to come out to inspect it.

Anyway, I thanked Coach and told him when I got ready to air my prejudices I'd come around, which I did.

The other night I attended a basket ball game, and received the shock of my life when I discovered that it was a ladies' game. I was actually ashamed of those girls, young women for soothe, fighting, snatching, wrestling with one another. I did feel awful sorry for Mr. Stookey out there all by himself. And when I learned that the game ended with everybody in peace instead of in pieces, I thought that if Mr. Hoover'd get L. L. to re-write this Kellogg Peace Act that Cal's wrestling with now, there wouldn't be a hitch anywhere.

The boys' game was terrible. Why those big husking lads jumped on each other and wrestled and tackled each other something awful. To my mind it's the most unmannerly of all sports. What with the yelling, and the slapping of hands, and the grabbing the ball without so much as saying "Pahdon me." Once or twice I did notice our men would say, "It's your turn now," and give Guilford or Greensboro a chance. But lawsy, they'd grab the ball out of their hands, and the whole thing would be to go over again.

I asked someone on the side lines to explain a play. "It's a foul, dumb-bell," he answered awful courteous like. "Well," I snapped, "This is my idea of a foul game anyhow." And I asked him if he'd excuse me I'd go home and write my reactions. Which I did.

OPERA WEEK CREATES INTEREST IN SCHOOL

Italy, for shortly after 1752 it swept Paris. Mozart introduced it into Germany. As for England, the opera came in its first form as the masque opera, but several influences, such as the Puritan oppositions to all English stage works, made to stunt its growth. This was not to continue, however, and the opera triumphed even over the opposition.

In America, William H. Fry was a pioneer in the field. His most successful work, "Leonora," was produced in 1845. Among the more recent works are Walter Damosch's "The Scarlet Letter," and "Cyrano," and "Natoma," and "Madeleine," by Victor Herbert. Mr. Herbert was one of the most successful of all American light opera composers. He wrote the popular "Naughty Marietta." Among his rivals in the field are Reginald DeKoven, composer of "Robin Hood," and John Philip Sousa, famous band master.

Among the famous operas which are now being presented in Greensboro are: "Carmen," "Madame Butterfly," "Faust," "Aida," and "Rigoletto."

Lost, yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for they are gone forever.
