On the bulletin board to the left of the main entrance to the library is an exhibit of hand-painted flowers. These are all the work of Mrs. Clara Worth Bryan, former teacher at the school. There are nineteen of these beautifully painted pictures, and they have as their subjects the better known of the wild flowers. To the right of the main entrance, there is a large clipping from the New York Times, dealing with the arrival of spring, and the

HOME ROOM 201 HAS AN UNUSUAL PROGRAM

Superlative Types of Room Show Their Ability; Statistics Selected Afterwards.

An unusual program was given last Wednesday in Mr. Marshall's senior home room. The superlative types of the class were recognized. Gladys Culler made a short talk on the Honor Society telling the advantages of it and its four ideals. "My Heart Leaps Up" was recited by Mary Holley. Mildred Payne had been deemed to be most poetic, so she read an original poem, "The Oak Tree." As Dell Hicks was the most musical, she sang a solo, "Where Is the Song of Songs for Me?" Percy Idol, being the only person in 201 belonging to the Oratio club, was asked to give an oration. He gave "The Gettysburg Address."

After this, the class voted on the other superlatives. Charlie Kearns proved to be a very popular boy. He was elected as most popular, best looking, most attractive, most athletic, best all-round boy, and biggest flirt. He seemed to carry the honors for the boys. Virginia Hunt was elected the most popular, the most athletic, and the best all-round girl. The two wittiest persons are "Chigger" Moffitt, and Ina McAdams. Ina McAdams was also chosen as the prettiest girl. Fred Thomas received a large majority of the votes for the biggest bluff of home room 201.

On another bulletin board is a copy of a spring-time painting by Gorot, and several lovely poems about Spring. These poems are by well-known authors, and are symbolic of the beauties of nature in the spring time.
