

JUNIOR MARSHALLS FOR 1942 ELECTED YESTERDAY

Class Also Votes To Spend Remaining Money On Gifts To School

Members of the Senior Class yesterday morning selected eight Junior boys and a like number of Junior girls to serve as Junior marshalls for the coming year.

The class also decided to spend money remaining in the treasury on a gift to the school, and donate any funds remaining after the purchase of this gift to the Red Cross.

This decision was made in conjunction with the report of Jimmy Whichard, chairman of the committee appointed by President Bob Gayle to decide what to do with excess funds in the treasury.

Payment for cuts used in the Senior Edition of the HIGH POINT ENTERPRISE will also be paid for out of the class treasury.

Those elected as Junior marshalls will serve as ushers at all program sponsored by the Senior Class, the positions to last until this time next year.

Bill Kivett was elected chief marshall and Barbara Lynn assistant chief marshall. Other marshalls elected were: Jane Ferree, Arta Pearl Hiatt, Sara Layton, Beverly Burton, Shirley Redding, Mary Elizabeth Barton, Roma Williams, John Crowder, Donald Dunkelberger, Fred Flagler, Harry Rothrock, Ray Willard, and Marvin Smith.

Plans for the annual Senior picnic will be discussed at a Senior Class meeting to be held sometime within the next two weeks, President Gayle stated at yesterday's meeting, warning class members to be thinking about what they would like to do, what they would like to have to eat, and what kind of entertainment they would like to have at the yearly event.

Three Of Faculty Entering Service

Three teachers of the local junior and senior high schools have volunteered for service in the armed forces of America.

Leo Morgan, assistant coach of football at the high school has been accepted in the Navy's V-6 branch. In this branch he will be under the orders of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, and will direct physical courses. He reports on April 29.

Nile Hunt, the other high school teacher, will be in the civil service branch of the Navy and will report on April 20. He is now a diversified occupation coordinator at High Point high school.

Clifford Martin, industrial art instructor at junior high has already left to fill his new position as a ground force instructor in the Army Air Corps.

D. L. Helms has been named as the successor to Martin and has already arrived in High Point.

Organization Of Air Raid Drills Under Way Here

Students of High Point high school took part in an air raid drill Tuesday, as they went quickly to their designated shelters.

The shower rooms in the gym, the band rooms, and the corridors on the first and second floors were used as shelters. The first aid center was located under the balcony of the gymnasium.

In charge of the committee heading these activities were Miss Meador, Mrs. Horton and Mr. Allison. Messengers have been appointed by this group to reach the people in obsolete places.

A plan to organize a committee for the extinguishing of incendiary bombs is being considered. Practice raids will take place at various times during the school days and the drill also will take place when the city as a whole undertakes a air raid drill.

In close connection with the drill was a picture that was sponsored by the office of civilian defense.

Six Candidates Nominated For Student Council Head

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION TO OCCUR ON APRIL 24

Rebekah Conrad, winner of the National Honor Society award, was a guest of the D. A. R. at a luncheon held in Asheville. At the luncheon Rebekah received her Pilgrimage pin and certificate. Afterward she had the honor of hearing a message delivered by Governor J. Melville Broughton.

Nomination of six for the post of student president was announced yesterday afternoon to a representative of this paper. Miss Louise Hunter, adviser of the local student council.

Election of a president from a list of candidates submitted occur April 24, although the election of a vice-president will be held until later.

Included in the list of those nominated for the post of student were: Ray Willard, Jim Bulla, Stan Kennett, Arta Pearl Hiatt, Mary Elizabeth Barton, and Jane Ferree.

Additional nominations may be made by petition, although the deadline for these petitions had not been set when the POINTER went to press yesterday afternoon.

This year's staff of officers, headed by Lewis "Monk" Watkins as president, and rounded out with Helen Craven as vice-president and Rebekah Conrad as secretary, was one of the most active in the school's history, and brought distinction to the school.

Successors for both Watkins and Craven must be selected in the forthcoming ballot, although the post of secretary will, according to the constitution of the local council, be filled by the girl elected Senior representative next fall.

If the president elected is a boy, the girls remaining on the list will be voted upon for the position of vice-president, or vice-versa.

The election of secretary or Senior representative will take place simultaneously with the election of Senior officers at the beginning of next school year.

Roth Shows Movie Of Old Mexico

Fiesta music and gay Mexican scenery greeted students on April 2, when Robert E. Roth, long recognized authority on Mexico, presented an illustrated lecture here. This program was the fifth and last of a series of programs presented to the student body by the honor society.

The film, "Picture Stories of Old Mexico" opens at Laredo, Texas, where Mr. Roth proceeds down the Scenic Pan-American Highway to Mexico City showing many interesting places on the way to and in Mexico City, including Xochimilco—the Venice of Mexico, the Pyramids of San Juan Tetotihuacan, the ruins at Mitla, and the lake at Patzcuaro.

Mr. Roth had just returned from his fourth trip through Mexico and had filmed over 8,000 feet of its historic and scenic wonders in technicolor. Over 2,000 feet of this film were selected and shown in the "Picture Stories of Old Mexico".

Commendation

Old members of the POINTER staff wish to extend thanks to those new members of the business staff, who, without benefit of previous experience, sold enough advertisements to make this six page issue possible.

Without their assistance, this extra size edition of the POINTER would have been impossible.

sored by the office of civilian defense.

"Fighting the Fire Bomb" was the title of the picture. The picture displayed examples of an incendiary bomb what they are composed of, and how to control it under various conditions.

DRAMATIC CLUB MEMBERS TO ATTEND STATE FESTIVAL

By Byron Grandjean

The Dramatic club, with Miss Ruth Goodman as faculty adviser, again this year is sending a contingent to the annual Dramatic Festival held at Chapel Hill where schools all over the state compete for awards in playwriting, directing, and a score of other events.

From High Point this year the following will attend: Bill Benigni, Bill Freeman, Roy Kriensbaum, Martha Jane Britt, Eleanor Younts, Barbara Lynn, and Gwynn Woodruff, the first three to spend the week-end and the remainder of the group to spend Saturday at the festival.

This year marked the first attempt of the Dramatic club in presenting a play. Their recent presentation of "Winter Sunset" at Belmont was well received. Miss Goodman said that next year, with a little more experience, she expected the club to do even better.

At Chapel Hill, plays will be presented in the morning and afternoon of Friday and Saturday with the presentation of awards on Saturday night.

Kiwanis Club To Show 'What A Life'

"What A Life", sponsored by the High Point Kiwanis Club, will be presented at the High Point Junior high school, Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, at 8:15 P. M.

The play will concern the life of Henry Aldrich, fictitious radio and screen character.

Produced by Walter Fleischmann of the High Point College faculty, the play will feature members of the college Dramatic Club, and will be much in the nature of other successes produced by Fleischmann, which include "Stage Door", "The Milky Way", and others.

Local Students Win In Tourney

Byron Grandjean, orator of High Point high school, returned home with high honors from the Wake Forest Speech and Debate Tournament which was held at Wake Forest College, April 2-4.

Grandjean not only won first place in oratory but also first place in radio announcing. In both contests he met the best opposition from out of the state. Ray Willard, junior, also brought honor to the school by placing second in the preliminaries of after dinner speaking. He participated in the finals which were held at the annual banquet, with noted men of the college present. Both boys were under the direction of their coach, Miss Ruth Goodman.

The Debating team made a good showing at this tournament in comparison with last year's crack debating team by capturing two wins. The team winning two was the negative, composed of Robert Williard and Phyllis Newton. The affirmative team, Ellen Stirewalt and Jim Whichard were unable to win.

Staff Reporter Interviews Phil Grandjean Of Canadian Armed Force

Listen girls I am all aflutter I just had an interview with Byron Grandjean's big brother Phil . . . whew he surely is goodlooking . . . all thoughts of Carolina left my mind momentarily .

But enough of the funny stuff. I'll get down to business and tell you about this graduate of High Point high school who is at present in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Phil Grandjean was born in Windsor, Canada, and lived in Canada in his adolescence, but came to High Point in 1935 and entered High Point high school as a senior. Miss Bulwinkle remembers him as a student and also recalls that he took a leading role in the Senior Play, as Byron's younger brother is going to do this year.

Grandjean flew home for his five day leave and in commenting on the war, thinks that it will last a long time. He is first lieutenant in his regiment, the Essex Scottish, and he has been for the recent past training troops at Camp Borden, Ontario, Canada.

Two years of his college education were at Duke University and his college education was finished at Queens in Canada, where he was active in boxing and wrestling.

Phil Grandjean is at present 24 years old and is vitally interested as we all are in the outcome of the war. Grandjean thinks he will see action sometime in the near future. He has also almost completed three years in his majesty's service and hopes to complete many more.
